How did Angkor become the largest, 13th century city ever built?

Using the most sophisticated technologies in conjunction with research focusing on statues, casts, and documents handed down by Louis Delaporte - one of the first explorers of Angkor in the 19th century - researchers have been able to uncover how Khmer temples operated, the meaning of their architecture, and how the capital of the Empire grew to become the largest city in the world at the end of the 13th century.

END OF THE OTTOMANS (THE)

As it unfolds the century-long history of the collapse of the Ottomans, the film offers an in-depth understanding of the impact the process had on the former Ottoman territories, up to the present time.

For six centuries, the Ottomans had ruled over three continents and seven seas. On the ruins of the Ottoman Empire, a whole new world was created. That is the purpose of this two-part film: analysing these new lines of fracture in order to remind how the Ottoman past still matters. Without appropriate knowledge and understanding of this page of history, no one could pretend grasping fully the current political, religious and ethnic challenges of our present time - in Bosnia, in Kosovo, in Turkey, in Lebanon, in Syria, in Israel, in Palestine, in Irak...

Via six masterpieces, the film reveals the beauty of the spirit of Versailles of the 17th and 18th centuries. A unique homage to the people that crafted it, the furniture reveals the personal tastes of its commissioners, and portrays something that has ceased to exist!

These unique items of furniture that once belonged to Louis 14th, Louis 15th, Marie-Antoinette and Louis 16th have fascinating stories to tell: the tortoise-shell chest-of-drawers with inlays of brass; an astronomical clock - a veritable miracle of science; the most emblematic example of French furniture art in the world - the King's Desk; and the exquisite items made for Marie-Antoinette - the queen's jewellery case and the wheat-sheaf furniture.

Tales of love, sex, power, betrayal, heinous crimes, unbearable separations, atrocious revenge, and metamorphoses - the poetic force of the myths has crossed the centuries.

This series sets out to recount these ancient stories using animations created especially for the occasion, and illustrations chosen from the entire history of art. This dynamic blend, a bridge between modernity and history, ancient narrative and contemporary dramatic art, is a new way to discover or re-discover this part of our universal heritage.

This multi-awards film is the tale of an extraordinary human and scientific adventure. An adventure in which we are plunged into the technical and psychological world of the Egyptians 3,500 years ago.

On the walls of the Deir el-Bahari temple in Luxor, a certain bas-relief has particularly intrigued Eyptologists. It depicts five boats setting sail for the distant land of Punt, ordered by their queen, the powerful Hatshepsut.

Although it had been believed that the Pharaoh's fleets only sailed up and down the Nile, the fresco at Luxor suggests something entirely different - Hatshepsut's expedition allegedly sailed via the Red Sea to reach the African coast, south of the Empire.

Could the Fountions have also be

Could the Egyptians have also been a great sea-faring people?

To test this theory, a team of archaeologists decided to research the matter by building a boat identical to the ones the Egyptians had made three thousand years earlier.

Does power erode dreams? This documentary explores the transition of the ANC from a liberation organization into South Africa's ruling party, through the evolution of the relationship between two of its most prominent cadres, Thabo Mbeki and Jacob Zuma.

Exiled under Apartheid they were brothers in arms, under Mandela they loyally laboured to build a non-racial state, now they are bitter rivals. Their duel threatens to tear apart the ANC and the country, as the poor desperately seek hope in change and the elite fight for the spoils of victory.

Behind the Rainbow features key interviews with ANC current and former leaders including Thabo Mbeki, Kgalema Motlanthe, Jacob Zuma, Pallo Jordan and Terror Lekota

Scenes of joy at the Radziwill Palace in Berlin to celebrate the end of negotiations at the Berlin Conference on Africa, which had lasted for four months. During these four months, the leading diplomats of the Western world had determined the future of Africa, dividing it up into areas of influence and drawing borders at random. Yet not a single African had been asked for their opinion!

Still almost entirely terra incognita, Africa was at the mercy of European geopolitics. It had aroused the lust of many, in particular Leopold II, King of Belgium, who by shrewd lobbying during the Conference managed to win the vast state of the Congo for his kingdom (and would soon own it outright).

The negotiating table was the scene of both power struggles and human comedy. Each country lauded its own altruistic values, invoked the white man's mission to bring civilisation to the Africans, or cloaked itself in other good intentions.

Yet the bald facts continue to speak louder than their words, and Africa still bears their scars.

This documentary makes use of previously unexplored archive material and the insights of historians specialised in the colonial question to shed new light on this period of history at the end of the 19th century that would seal the fate of an entire continent for many years to come.

An untold story about the cold war on the African continent, or the defeat of an ideal, internationalism, which Cuban guerrillas failed to defend.

In Africa, in the early '60s, four adversaries with conflicting interests face off: the Soviets want to expand their influence; the United States intend to appropriate the continent's natural riches; the former empires seek to revive their shaky colonial power; and the young nations defend their newly-won independence, armed with an ideal: internationalism.

African revolutionaries like Patrice Lumumba, Amilcar Cabral and Agostinho Neto call on Cuban guerrillas to help them in their struggle, and Fidel Castro's men will play a central role on the continent, from Che Guevara's tragicomic epic in the Congo up to the triumph of the battle of Cuito Cuanavale in Angola.

This film relates a largely untold story, going from 1961 to 1989, with archives and interviews to back it up.

This drama-documentary tells the tragic story of 7 young airmen one Canadian and 6 British, who died in the Hautes-Pyrenees, in July 1944. A page of Resistance history was written there.

On the night on July 13th, a four-engine Halifax Bomber of the RAF loaded down with weapons, ammunition and money, takes off from Blida in Algeria with its 7-man crew. Its mission: resupply by parachute the Resistance Fighters of Nistos. The aircraft crashes at the foot of Douly's Peak. Was it a navigational error or a coordination problem with the Resistance? Nobody knows. The crash enables the Resistance to gain a decisive upper hand over the German forces. Since then, Douly's Peak has become a symbolic place in its own right, for an entire generation of pilots, a sacrificed generation, heroes who freely volunteered to fight Nazism and support the French Résistance at any price.

Over the course of a century, these images narrate the thwarted destiny of a pivotal nation, caught between archaism and modernity, secularity and religion, submissiveness and independence, East and West.

A crossroad country, a nation divided, Iran is on the rise after a century of political upheaval. The nuclear crisis has revealed to the world its goal: to become a world power.

For the first time ever, this film will look back over 100 years of Iranian history to the veritable wellsprings of the confrontation between Iran and the western powers.

From 1908 to 2008, from the discovery of oil reserves to the nuclear crisis, we present a spectacular voyage to the heart of a country and a people, a colorful fresco focusing on real-life stories, unveiling archive images and authentic documents, and giving eyewitnesses - Iranian men and women - a chance to speak. A crisscrossing gaze, free of both prejudice and compromise: how they see us, how we see them.

Access has been granted to Iranian national audiovisual archives. Rare footage has also been collected in various sources across Europe, Russia and the United States.

Two times UN Secretary-General, Nobel Peace Prize laureate Kofi Annan talks about himself in an exclusive interview.

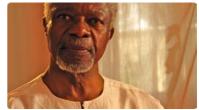

His Ghanian childhood seems to have equipped him with unfailing morals and a spirit of optimism. When he entered the UN in the 1960s, he dreamt of serving the major causes of the UN charter - Human Rights, development and the collective security organisation. Subsequent events in his life unhinged those dreams.

In the 1990s, Kofi Annan led the Blue Helmets on their impossible peace-keeping missions. His ideal back then was violently challenged by a few of the most terrible chapters in contemporary History - in Somalia, Rwanda and Bosnia. He witnessed - overpassively in the view of his critics - the most serious of crimes, overburdened by his powerlessness to prevent them.

His two terms of office at the head of the UN were largely spent erecting "ramparts against Evil" he says, and were a quest to give Humanity the means to "counter-attack". They were a diplomatic struggle at the summit of power, in which the law was often dictated by national selfishness. He suffered a personal ordeal, too, when he came under suspicion of corruption.

Throughout his account, Kofi Annan's vision of mankind is characterised by a stubborn confidence. Although his dream has been "suspended" by History from time to time, it is alive and well...

Mussolini's mistress and advisor, remains a nearly forgotten woman in the Duce's entourage. 20 years of intense, loving, and reciprocal passion. For Mussolini, Margherita was his shadow, his phantom, and his speechwriter. She was the Duce's "other wife". She was jewish.

Born in 1880 in a 15th-century palace on the edge of the old ghetto of Venice, Margherita Sarfatti spent the rest of her youth in the Palazzo Bembo on the Grand Canal. Her father wanted her to have the best tutors.

But that did not prevent her from becoming a militant socialist and, later, one of the most listened to members of the party, and yet, an avant-garde feminist. Her salon, first in Milan then in Rome, attracted famous composers, writers, and artists from Italy and abroad. She loved to collect "precious people". In 1923, she had the first Novecento exhibition in Milan opened by her lover, Benito Mussolini.

June 1994. Kigali, the capital of Rwanda, is given over to the butchers of the extremist Hutu militia and the Rwandan army.

During an attack on a parish in which a hundred refugees have taken shelter, the author, at that time a reporter/cameraman, is shot in the hip. Ten years later, he returns to the scene in search of survivors and his ephemeral 'fellow travelers'. With this journey as its thread, the film is a reflection upon the way such events are handled by the media and politicians.

In France, Germany, the United Kingdom, Poland, the USSR and Italy, figures like Maria Montessori, Célestin Freinet, Ovide Decroly and Alexander S. Neill profoundly changed ideas on education, through a child-centred approach to teaching.

The rise to power of totalitarian ideologies hit their utopian dream with full force.

Soviet archives house the only filmed memories of the Holocaust. Taken on the fly, these images represent reality. But what reality?

Following the German invasion, the Soviets decided to put their know-how into practice and to film the enemy's fearsome extermination machine, for their own purposes. The images of war from the period were inspired by a cinematographic tradition of aestheticism, but were also dependent on political considerations. This strategy of "warby-image" creates a black hole: the identity of the victims. The Jews are forgotten. Mentioning the Jews goes against the idea of a Great Patriotic War. Examining the images recorded during this dark period means looking anew at what was not filmed, but also at the messages transmitted and the arrangements made with the truth. Do "images-astruth" lie?

On Tuesday 11 September 2001, all eyes were riveted on New York. Television channels the world over broadcast live the mind-blowing images of the attack. What remains 10 years on?

The odd absolute certainty and a handful of urban legends sustained by distorted truths and bloody mindedness. What do we really know about the pilots? Who exactly were they? Whose orders were they acting under? Could they have been stopped? How did the situation escalate to the point it did?

The 11 September attacks - a major event at the dawn of a new century - has profoundly and lastingly changed the world political situation and international relations.

This film seeks to explore the causes of the evil that led to the attacks, by documenting 20 years of relations between Washington, the Arab countries, Pakistan and Europe, with the invaluable participation of those who witnessed events (politicians, diplomats, secret agents and former members of Al Qaida).

This two-part enquiry sheds new light on the geopolitical and historical background to the attacks and attempts to provide a more precise answer to these questions.

The two thematic and chronological documentaries explore the official history (that of the witnesses, specialists, diplomats and politicians) and compare it with the unofficial history (the one that is not documented in school books, and told by agents from the various secret services, investigators and police officers).

Over two films, this documentary reveals the formation and disintegration, within our own time, of a neighbouring European State named Yugoslavia.

Part One covers the period from 1918 to 1980, the year of Marshal Tito's death, and explores the circumstances surrounding Yugoslavia's foundation, as well as the years of unity beneath the banner of Tito's version of communism. Part Two (1980-2001) concerns the catastrophic circumstances that befell the country from the dissolution of communism up until its final collapse during the five fratricidal wars. Weaved into Part Two will be an exploration of the current state of affairs in the former Yugoslavian States today, from which vital lessons can be drawn for contemporary fissiparous struggles in the Ukraine and elsewhere.

A WOMAN'S WOMB - THE POLITICS OF REPRODUCTION

In Peru, in the space of 5 years, over 300,000 women and nearly 30,000 men were sterilised by force by Alberto Fujimori's government, supported by international authorities.

In the name of the fight against poverty, the Quechua Indians were the principal victims.

Facing the camera squarely, and with dignity, the victims tell of the brutality of the operations that were imposed on them and that disrupted their lives. Around these women's testimonies, the film reconstructs the Peruvian case in a world history of birth control. It reveals the fundamental roles played by the World Bank, the United Nations and USAID (the U.S. agency for development aid) that upheld sterilisation as instrumental in the fight against poverty, even at the expense of thousands of broken lives. Although the case of the 8 million Indians sterilised by force under Indira Gandhi in the 1970s has since then been denounced as a gross abuse of authority, the tragedy of these Peruvian woman had until now stayed in the shadows.

Albert Londres Prize 2016 in the Audiovisual Press category, this film is an unprecedented and chilling investigation into the invisible weapon of Bashar al-Assad's regime: the kidnapping, torture and murder of tens of thousands of Syrians.

Images of the first peaceful protests of March 2011 have become a vague, almost fanciful memory. The Syria of 2015 has sunk into civil war and absolute chaos. Chaos caused by the over-mediatised brutality of the self proclaimed Islamic State. Chaos, also and above all, caused by the invisible and little known weapon of Bashar al-Assad's regime: the kidnapping, torture and murder, since 2011, of tens of thousands of Syrians - up to 200,000 of them, depending on the source.

HD

Countless disappearances reveal the relentless death machine secretly set up by Damascus: teenagers are rounded up in their schools, protesters are sent in trucks to unknown destinations, and passers-by are arbitrarily arrested. For the first time, families in exile, survivors, but also accomplices of the Alawite regime, lay bare the strategy the Syrian dictatorship uses in order to remain in power at all costs. According to Munir al-Hariri, who served the Assads until November 2012, "the objective is not murder, but to prove the State's strength and tyranny. The objective is to kill some to teach a lesson to others".

In the suburbs of Accra, the capital of Ghana, children play at dismantling scrapped electronic equipment, surrounded by foul smelling and toxic fumes, in a sadly-famous, uncontrolled rubbish dump. The film takes this site as its point of departure, and is driven forward by Ghanaian journalist Mike Anane, who is an expert on the environment. He wants to know why his country has become the trash can of the developed countries.

This lucid and efficient investigation by Cosima Dannoritzer (The Light Bulb Conspiracy) into several European countries, Asia and the U.S., reveals the apparatus of large-scale trafficking, as well as a complex chain of responsibility and collusion.

Today, people are being subjected to a new form of insecurity - in the form of access to energy. In under a decade, electricity bills have rocketed by over 20%! How can an increase of this magnitude be justified? And could the price hike have been avoided?

A lack of political foresight, self-centeredness on the part of States, poor management by industrialists and European Commission dogmatism... is Europe on the verge of a blackout? This investigation endeavours to reveal the series of decisions that have led to this new form of insecurity, to this situation in which citizens lack the power to control access to energy.

EUROPE, THE RISE OF POPULISM

Surfing on rising discontent in the face of economic recession or crisis, populist movements have multiplied electoral victories. How can the growing success of these organizations be explained? An investigation into the workings of blooming forms of extremism.

They pretend to speak in the name of "the people," cleverly embracing widespread expectations. To each issue, they invariably offer the same answers: Down with immigration, the European Union, and the elites.

Whether it is Marine Le Pen in France, Geert Wilders in the Netherlands, Viktor Orbán in Hungary, Beppe Grillo in Italy, the leaders of these political movements have managed to capture the allegiance of increasing numbers of citizens, relying on punchy catchphrases and simplistic rhetoric that have helped them build respectable façades.

Some of them have joined forces on the European scale to conquer the EU Parliament. Are they really on their way to power?

Antoine Vitkine carried out a wide investigation throughout the Old Continent, filming at close range the main protagonists of the populist galaxy, from voters to populist leaders. He analysed the speeches and methods of populist organizations while gauging the various forms of anger, fear and frustration on which they thrive. A trenchant documentary exploring the workings of those new forms of extremism which pose a threat to Europe.

KILLER FINANCE

Why must public money be given to private banks facing bankruptcy? A remarkable investigation into the madness of a system.

Killer Finance is a highly structured narrative alternating the words of specialists and instructive animated scenes with carefully selected archive images. It is composed of two separate chapters - on the one hand, a veritable lesson in political and economic history retracing the various stages that have led to the financialization of the world economy since the 1929 crisis - and on the other a breakdown of the stock-exchange logic of the recent decade that has led to the current crisis. What have we taken from it? What lessons have we learned from it since 2008?

Worldwide except French-speaking and Dutch-speaking Belgium along with Frenchspeaking Switzerland for TV rights. Golden FIPA and Etoile de la SCAM, this film sheds light on the subject of future commercial wars: the control of agricultural resources.

Rice feeds one in every two human beings on a daily basis, and as such is key to worldwide food security. The precious crop has the power to guarantee political stability or to topple governments.

Not long ago, the inhabitants of Port au Prince in Haiti cried famine. In Cairo and Dakar, crowds took to the streets. In Manila, shantytowns were on the brink of revolt. Everywhere, the cause was the same - the price of rice had exploded. Why was the market affected so aversely?

With its detailed enquiry into producers and exporters in Thailand, into international traders in Geneva, and into importers in Dakar, Bamako and Manila, "Ricejacking" reveals the mechanisms that led to the 2008 crisis - corruption at the very highest level, abusive monopolies, and speculation, which forced Africa to pay very high prices for Asian rice.

Could the representatives of the Bush administration be prosecuted for "war crimes"? This investigative documentary dismantles the machine that led "the world's greatest democracy" to use systematic torture on a massive scale in Afghanistan, Guantanamo and Iraq.

We discover that, immediately after the 11 September attacks, Vice President Dick Cheney piloted a secret programme, aimed at "legalising" torture, which not only totally violated the Geneva Conventions (the 60th anniversary of which was celebrated in 2009), but also violated the Convention against Torture (signed by the United States) and U.S laws such as the War Crimes Act of 1996, in which the death penalty or life imprisonment is imposed on those who use torture.

The film is supported by exclusive interviews with major witnesses - General Ricardo Sanchez, former commander of the coalition forces in Iraq (who speaks for the first time on camera), Larry Wilkerson, Colin Powell's former Chief of Staff, Matthew Waxman, former advisor to Condoleeza Rice at the White House, Alberto Mora, former US Navy General Counsel, and Michael Scheuer, chief architect of the CIA's "Extraordinary Renditions" programme. It is also backed up with previously unaired filmed archives of the parliamentary hearings carried out between 2004 and 2008, in particular by the US Senate Armed Services Committee.

Who? When? How? Why? This series immerses us in the chaos at the dark heart of crime fiction, taking us on journey through the labyrinthine workings of the whodunnit, with many a shudder along the way.

Nowadays, one published novel in four is a "roman noir", a "thriller" or a "detective story". How did crime fiction come to be so popular that it is now a universal language everyone can understand?

Through interviews with present-day creators of crime fiction, Part 1 of Anatomy of Crime Fiction analyses the fateful trio of the victim, the murderer and the detective, piecing together a profile of the 3 emblematic figures who provide the starting-point for all good whodunnits, while Parts 2 and 3 explore locations and plots.

A new generation - the geek generation - has taken over. It is now fashionable to be a geek and for everyone to claim to be one. In saga form, this documentary follows the irresistible rise of a generation and the cultural tsunami it has spearheaded.

First appearing in the 70s, geeks had a shared passion for computers, science fiction and comic books, and developed their own culture opposed to the norm. Right from the start, geek culture established its own key dates, codes, special places and cult figures. The Lord of the Rings, Star Wars, Steve Jobs, Pac-Man and Mario Bros were all vital references.

Things had changed by the 2000s. Now the first-generation geeks were thirty or forty and had become a vital creative and economic power. Their values reflected those promoted by modern society, and popular imagination - especially in films - turned the geek into a central character.

So the geek explosion is important to everyone. It is the symptom and representation of a new rapport with technology, a new way of communicating. It reflects a swing from traditional culture to pure entertainment culture.

SEX, LIES AND TABLOIDS!

The film tells the story of the tabloïd press in Europe and in the US, from the glory days of Fleet St. to the celebrity gossip websites, and the advent of a real tabloïd culture

In an ironic and incisive manner, this documentary revisits the visual codes and intrigues of the gutter press (secrets, "exclusive" revelations etc) and its golden age in Europe and in the USA.

Once considered the mark of outsiders, or a distinguishing feature of convicts and sailors, followed by punks and rockers, tattoos have now spread to all skins.

How did they migrate from the margin to the masses, from underground to mainstream? Tattoos have now permeated all levels of society, but what does the practice of tattooing actually convey? A remarkable investigation into the powers of tattooing.

From Los Angeles to Tokyo, Paris to Amsterdam, the film will intermix personal stories from several key characters -Lyle Tuttle, Mark Mahoney, Jack Rudy, Paul Booth, Mr Cartoon, Horiyoshi 3, Shige, Tin-Tin, Jean Paul Gauthier, Henry Rollins, Dennis Rodman, Kat Von D...), to give viewers a better understanding of the tattoo up rising culture.

They all have a big belly: the city food market that nourishes a great part of their population.

We all know what a food market is. We're attracted by the electrifying colours, pulsing sounds and gorging products. But what do we know about how a food market actually works? How do enormous quantities of food reach there every day and where does it come from? Who decides the prices and puts together thousands of different vendors in huge but concentrated areas? In the Belly of the City graphs the changes that have taken place at the heart of the cities food supply systems from an entirely new perspective.

Six stories, six adventures, six original, unexpected stories, that are full of surprises, anecdotes and revelations, carried along by lively characters and incredible situations.

Sushi was the first fast food in history, chips have become a national treasure and sandwiches were canonised by the English aristocracy. More than being sometimes ageold dishes, more than being a tradition or a phenomenon - pizzas, ice cream, sandwiches, sushi, chips and pasta have become icons of the globalised world and play a major economic, cultural and social role in it.

All these simple local dishes have become universal and are now eaten all over the world. Yet universal as they are, in each country where they have been adopted, they are changed to suit the tastes of the inhabitants, giving rise to variations hailed as local specialities - from the hot pastrami sandwich in New York to the Hawaiian pizza, from mussels and chips in Brussels to American French fries - the culinary variations are endless!

An appetising series!

An Austrian chef travels all over France learning how to cook mouthwatering dishes. A delicious and delightful series!

Sarah Wiener, an Austrian living in Berlin, pursued an early passion for cooking and became a chef. In 2006, she travelled all over France in her Volkswagen Beetle to discover the pleasures of good food, and meet those who, like herself, lovingly cook it. In each new region, she is welcomed by a chef, who teaches her how to make a typical recipe - from "Boeuf Bourguignon", "Bouillabaisse", "Cassoulet" and "Tarte Tatin" to "Carpe au Cacao"! She has two days to get to know her hosts and make the dish. But before she can hit the kitchen, she has to catch the fish, kill the game or milk the ewes. After tasting her dish, a gourmet-studded jury delivers their verdict on the cook's talent. But Sarah Wiener does more than just peek around French kitchens. With her, we share memorable moments in the kitchen, and are privy to culinary table-talk that ranges from the basics to refined concoctions.

Sarah Wiener has gathered together 12 youngsters from all over Europe, aged 12 to 14, to pass on her passion for cooking and food. Sarah's objective is to teach her young recruits how to eat more healthily and how to have fun cooking!

The series portrays the daily experiences of the boys and girls at the neighbouring farms in the vegetable patch, at the market and in the kitchen.

The vegetable patch and orchad will supply the fruit and vegetables, as long as they are tented to, sown, planted, weeded and watered before they're harvested. The inhabitants of the kitchen run, the rabbit hutch and the pigsty also require constant care. Initially, none of the kitchen kids on the gastronomic holiday camp know how to cook. So Sarah is going to first show them some simple recipes, before they can move onto more sophisticated dishes.

Following her Tour de France, Sarah Wiener continues her gastronomic wanderings in Italy, still behind the wheel of her little red Beetle. Sarah carries out ten legs of a journey that is peppered with surprises, through ten regions of "la Bella Italia", gathering gourmet knowledge by smelling, tasting and savouring.

Sarah Wiener carries out a culinary tour of Italy! Her adventures take her to ten regions of the Big Boot, including Umbria, Tuscany, Calabria, Frioul and Venice.

Once she reaches her destination, Sarah Wiener has just one objective - to immerse herself in the recipes and their history, by exploring the ingredients and their origins, and by gathering regional tips, such as why the pizza base in Naples has to be so thin - and how to make it so thin. Such as why there couldn't be any tomatoes without Mount Vesuvius, how tomatoes end up in spaghetti and why water buffaloes make the best mozzarella.

Ever since Yves Saint Laurent's mythical rise to the top of the Dior house at the age of 21, the world of fashion has delighted in young prodigies whose fine instincts and outstanding personalities promise to change the course of things. Olivier Rousteing belongs to this line of descent.

Paris has a new hero. But it's not an easy legacy to bear, especially in the mythical French house created in 1945 by Pierre Balmain. Is Olivier Rousteing disconnected from reality? How does he manage the stress before a fashion show? How does he build team spirit? How does he dream up and subsequently perfect his talents as a tailor?

Fashion loves a scandal. In fact, it only progresses thanks to scandals - from the juicy to the thorny, to the spicy to the laughable.

There are various types of scandal in fashion, and this series endeavours to examine all of them, in a humorous light, seeking the fly in the ointment, the revealing or raunchy anecdote. Loïc Prigent wants to reveal fashion's state of mind, and one of its principles: how to get ahead if you don't respect a thing. Fashion thinks outside the box - and therefore frequently clashes, often for better, sometimes for worse - and sometimes for the grotesque.

JEANS - A FADED BLUE PLANET

The journey of the jean, a road-movie which leads it from its beginnings as workmen's clothing to a life as a political symbol and, in our days, an icon ruling a global empire, the documentary looks at the blue-jean phenomenon from a wacky new angle, observing its impact on our lives and civilization.

In 2000, a vintage 1880 Levi's jeans is discovered in an abandoned mine. Auctioned on eBay, the pants, which originally sold for 99 cents, reached a price of $46,532! This amazing story sums up the whole blue jeans phenomenon in a nutshell: a legendary garment, mass-produced, which witnessed the Industrial Revolution and clad cowboys on the western frontier, is now a fashion statement worldwide, for men and women, young and old: an icon of modernity which has lasted for 150 years. With flying colors, the jeans have sailed through early marketing, the Internet, the world of collectors, the end of the Cold War, and now globalization. Their eternal popularity begs a guestion: Why?

Shortly after the Second World War, Parisian haute couture experienced an extraordinary revival epitomised by Dior's New Look, Givenchy's elegance, Chanel's style and Balenciaga's sophistication. It was a golden age, but it was also a swan song - the last blaze of glory of a world that had become an anachronism.

Through the intertwined careers of the great couturiers of the period and their eccentric, immensely rich customers, Paris Couture conjures up a world that has vanished forever - the world of the great couture houses, with its fancy dress balls and salons.

During those 25 years, the couturiers were able to give their imaginations a free rein, indulging in every possible extravagance, but the democratization of fashion, the advent of the leisure society and increasingly affordable air travel were to hasten the decline of haute couture.

Haute Couture is the Acropolis of fashion. It is majestic, impressive and somewhat in ruins - but it remains a symbol. Its biggest shortcoming is that not many people really know what Haute Couture is anymore, often confusing it with luxury Ready-to-Wear. So what exactly is Haute Couture?

"It is doxa, a guarantee of quality, a Parisian tradition, a fashion reserved for an elite, a price range, clients, couturiers (and no longer creators), and a media platform. In this documentary, I want to explain what Haute Couture is through the detailed filming of a week of Haute Couture fashion shows in Paris" explains Loïc Prigent.

When football becomes a citizen sport! At a time when business seems to be corrupting our relationship with sport, the indomitable Eric Cantona shows us footballers who've managed to resist.

Their names are Mekloufi, Sócrates, Pasic, Caszely, Drogba, Tamburrini, Thaljieh, Afonsinho, Navazo or Lucarelli. 10 players who took part in disputes or fought back against the spheres of power, becoming figureheads of resistance or rebellion, well beyond their sole sporting achievements.

A documentary series / manifesto that reasserts the values of sport among citizens, via 10 stories that are dear to Eric Cantona.

Who was Ali? This first and only real portrait, contrary to recent stock shot montages, brings a powerful, often hilarious, and always entertaining answer.

In 1964, Cassius Clay becomes heavy-weight champion of the world and declares his name is Muhammad Ali. A date in sports history and a turning point in black awareness.

It was a searing look into boxing, into the Southern power structure, inside the Black Muslims. Muhammad Ali explodes on the scene constantly catching America off guard, the first black champion to declare himself free. Eventually, it cost him his title, 3 years enforced retirement, and many millions of dollars.

Muhammad Ali, an aging 32 year-old, who no longer Floats-like-a-Butterfly-and-Stings-like-a-Bee, no longer a revolutionary figure but nostalgia, wants his title back, or, at least, one last big pay check and he shall fight the terrifying Foreman.

And at all odds, this is the end of the most extraordinary sports career of all time. October 31, 5:30am, Kinshasa, Zaïre. Ali stands triumphant over Foreman, bewildered and K.O How did Ali, underdog, ex-martyr, become once again an all-time hero, champion and legend?

Despite the fact that there have been many changes over time in the way anorexia is viewed on a societal, cultural and medical level, the condition remains an enigma.

This film is presented in the form of an international investigation into the way the condition is evolving and the way in which anorexia and its treatment take on the interpretations of their era. What is anorexia nervosa? Is it a form of hysteria or psychosis, an addiction or a borderline state? A perversion? A hormonal disorder? A neurological disorder? An eating disorder? A body-image disorder?

For centuries, descriptions and interpretations of the condition - some conflicting, some complementary - have followed on from one another. This illness of mind and body resists any exclusively biological or exclusively psychoanalytical approach. The body, which becomes a battleground, bears the brunt of this relationship and dependency disorder.

The film focuses on the "enigma" of anorexia (the pursuit of maximum thinness) rather than on the wider field of eating disorders, which would include too many diverse notions.

Left paralysed by an aeroplane crash, Dorine Bourneton was determined to fulfil her dream of becoming the first disabled female aerobatics pilot.

Dorine had always wanted to fly. But in May 1991, when she was just 16, tragedy intervened. The small Piper aircraft she was a passenger on hit the side of Mount Mézenc, in the Haute-Loire area of France. Dorine was the sole survivor of the crash. She lost the use of her legs, but not the passion for flying she shared with her father. As Sam Caro's documentary charts her struggles and shows how she sets about achieving her goal, Dorine emerges as a woman of exceptional courage and talent. It takes us up to June 2015, when she was about to become the first disabled woman ever to perform an aerobatics display at the Paris Air Show.

At a time when France is envisaging prison reform, other European countries have already been experimenting for quite some time with a different mode of incarceration, so as to favor rehabilitation.

Overpopulated prisons, round-the-clock surveillance, the perspective of repeat offences: inmates nearing the end of their sentences, particularly those who have committed minor offences, often lack the resources to prepare for rehabilitation into the free world.

"In the depths of the collective subconscious lies the notion that inmates must pay by suffering", remarks Robert Badinter. And yet in Finland, Germany and Switzerland, nearly a quarter of inmates end their sentences in an open environment. A system based on trust and on the inmates' work, enabling them to start afresh, sometimes far from their prisons. For a third of the running costs of classic imprisonment, these solutions are proving efficient, both socially and economically.

HD

The investigation turns to professionals of the prison world and above all, to the inmates. In addition to being a potential and judicious approach, open prisons could become a major issue for modern democracies.

Filmed primarily in law offices and courts only steps away from the glittering lights of Las Vegas's famed Strip, Sin City Law reveals a different side of Las Vegas - a world of gang activity, homelessness, drugs and mob vendettas.

As Poncet, de Lestrade and director Remy Burkel scrutinize four recent murder cases, their cameras sit in on strategy sessions in the offices of the district attorney, observe moving conversations between the accused and their public defenders, and chronicle the trial as it unfolds in the courtroom. Like their other acclaimed films, Poncet and de Lestrade's raw, honest and suspenseful stories are as emotionally engaging as any high-quality TV drama, while also opening a window to the realities of crime and punishment in the United States.

The history of homosexuality in pop culture is awash with secrets, unexpected developments, drama and major acts of courage, which form part of History in general.

It is no longer anything unusual to see homosexual characters in films or series. All the arts explore the theme, and numerous celebrities do not hide the fact that they are lesbian or gay. Yet not so long ago, it was a very complex matter to speak about homosexuality in popular culture, and those who did so had to find ingenious ways to approach the subject, and thus nudge mentalities forward to make homosexuals more accepted by the general public - and by themselves.

The history of its origins, from the tales told about it in the Muslim tradition to the recent discoveries of scientists, remains largely unknown.

This film invites the viewer to discover this "archaeology of the Koran": a journey to the places where the Koran took shape, was developed and passed on, with running comment and analyses by historians.

Here, on the outskirts of the city, Youssouf Mume Saleh, or the "Hyena-man" as he is known, feeds a clan of spotted hyenas every evening. Elsewhere in the Horn of Africa, these animals can terrorize populations, but as Youssouf says himself, the hyenas are part of his family. He has given a name to each one of them.

Youssouf is one of the last guardians of a tradition that is over one hundred years old. Long ago, Harar signed a non-aggression pact with the hyenas, and that pact still exists today. The wild hyenas roam the streets of the city freely, and locals are not worried. They need these natural "rubbish collectors". In addition, the hyenas of Hara protect the population from attack by foreign hyenas.

At a time when all over the world conflicts between man and wild animals are increasing, here exists a unique relationship of cohabitation between man and a major carnivore. This film recounts the story of this exceptional and fascinating man-animal relationship.

In the heart of the mighty Amazon forest, hides a strange animal that we do not expect to see thousands of kilometres from the ocean.

The Amazon Pink River Dolphin, which looks like a living fossil, is one of the most mysterious species of the animal kingdom. Where does it come from? How has this animal come to acclimate to this flooded, tropical rainforest environment? What links do they have to marine dolphins? Are they simple descendants of the marine species, or a distinct species that has survived through the ages and adapted to this lush environment?

Unknown for a long time, the pink dolphin remains a mystery to the scientists struggling to reconstruct its evolutionary course. Now thanks to a recent discovery, scientists are finally able to understand more about the mystery of the pink dolphin and its origins.

TERRITORY(IES)

This collection takes an original look at contemporary gardens focusing on examples of the most recent landscaping. We learn from those who find innovative and creative solutions that provide poetic breathing spaces in an increasingly urbanised world.

Landscape architect Jean-Philippe Teyssier takes us on a discovery of the most beautiful gardens in France and elsewhere in Europe. The gardeners, landscapers, horticulturalists, architects, historians and estate managers he meets reveal the art of gardening. They show us how gardens have been designed, planted and maintained over the centuries. The exceptional gardens Jean-Philippe Teyssier visits are a myriad of passions, journeys, colours and shapes.

Guillaume and Marie, professional wildlife photographers, venture to far-flung corners of the world, with their 3-year old daughter, to capture on film the lives of animals in their natural habitats.

They invite us to share their unique way of life, the secrets of their profession, and their experiences with the people they meet. Each episode focuses on a particular animal and their individual characteristics. Each time, Guillaume and Marie return with a detailed photographic account of their adventures.

The history of man, told through uncharted sites, traditions and peoples, with, as a guide, the talented 34-year old paleopathologist Philippe Charlier, who is also a historian, anthropologist and forensic pathologist.

Via the scientific studies he has either taken part in or knows everything about, Philippe Charlier takes us on a world tour of secret splendours, all of which reveal a little more about the history of peoples, via their ways of life, their culture, their rites and their religion. Amidst breathtaking landscapes, we discover mythical places and traditions that are shrouded in mystery.

Whether they are hot spots of glamour or places steeped in history, beaches reflect the evolution of a country - from the very first swim in the sea for the privileged few to today's mass tourism.

We travel from continent to continent, visiting beaches that reveal how people live, who they really are, and what they think. From Russians sunbathing standing up, to Chinese who cannot swim, to enthusiasts of nature and naturism in Germany, to women wearing veils in the sea in Pakistan, "Let's All go to the Beach" is an original way to discover the various codes of our world's societies.

LET'S ALL GO TO THE SEA - 43'

Coastlines and seafronts are the gateways to the oceans, a source of many and varied natural resources. It's easy to understand why half of the world's population lives along or near the coast.

Throughout History man has discovered and settled faraway places by first reaching land on the coasts and seafronts. And it's one explanation for the fascinating racial mix that is often found on coasts. The 10 coastlines featured in the series brilliantly reflect the lifestyles and customs of the people that use them.

Some coasts are still growing like those in Hawaii, spiked with active volcanoes whose lava flows into the ocean, others are at sea level as in United Arab Emirates On the coast live multilayered and mixed-race communities, deeply rooted with strong identities. Together they all share a common secret, the secret that has fashioned their culture and their way of life: the fear of the Big One in California, the isolation along Chile's endless coastline, the smouldering volcanoes of Hawaii, nature preservation in Costa Rica, souvenirs of the revolution in Mozambique, post-communism in Cambodia...

This is the common theme throughout the series, the secrets that each film reveals as it investigates the seashores and coast lines.

English - German - French TERRITORY(IES) Our dreams of discovery, of exotic locations and unusual encounters will lead us to the snow-topped summits and mist-filled valleys of some of the world's most mythical mountains.

Their names are perhaps familiar only to mountaineering aficionados, but they convey a sense of wonder that inspires all our imaginations. Often extremely difficult to even reach, if not climb, they are a source of both fascination and foreboding.

The common denominator of these natural sky-scrapers: they are all generally sacred places, and their inhabitants regard them as veritable gods. The local populations, in harsh, even menacing environments, perpetuate rituals and traditions that are of great importance in their everyday lives. Tourism and mountain-based sporting activities may have developed considerably, but such places still retain an aura of mystery that we shall reveal through this spectacular series.

Are biopesticides - micro-organisms that fight pests naturally - the promise of a chemical-free agriculture? Farmers all over the world are converting to biopesticides, stimulated by scientific research that is opening up new perspectives. But is the technique risk-free for the environment?

Invertebrates, insects, mites, fungi, bacteria, viruses ... these living mini-organisms that scientists are studying in great detail worldwide, will here make light work of pests. Today they are our best hope of a pesticide-free agriculture that is so harmful to man and the environment.

So are biopesticides revolutionary? In Europe, Brazil and India, millions of farmers have already adopted bioprotectors. Today, the agro-chemical industry is investing heavily in the sector, but promising as it is, the technique is still far from being infallible, and is not entirely devoid of risk to the ecosystem.

How to feed the world in 2050? Through agroecology practices.

While reminding us that one sixth of humanity still goes hungry today, and analysing the reasons for this, her film demonstrates that the situation is far from irrevocable, so long as we're prepared to modify the current agricultural paradigm and rethink our management and organisation of the food chain.

MYSTERY OF THE DISAPPEARING BEES (THE)

An investigation into a worldwide ecological disaster that could endanger the whole of humanity.

The future of our food resources depends on one small insect - the western honey bee, or Apis mellifera. Indeed, it is the most important agricultural pollinator on our planet given that one third of our food supply depends directly on pollination from bees.

This documentary tells the story of a worldwide ecological disaster that has been waiting to happen for several generations.

Scotland and retraces the various leads carried out by research scientists in order to try and understand and to stop the declining numbers of domestic and wild bees.

VERSIONS It was filmed over an 18-month period in France, Germany, the U.S., Canada and English - German - French TERRITORY(IES) Worldwide.

> Scientists are not the only professionals to figure at the centre of this drama. Beekeepers are in the front line, and striking contrasts exist among beekeepers' experiences in different countries, in various economic situations. The documentary seeks to understand how the long-enjoyed harmonious relationship between man and bee has now undergone such a radical change. It seeks to find a solution that goes beyond science. A solution that cannot be found without thoroughly re-examining our agricultural practice and our model of society. Can we rise to the challenge? AWARDS:

Is there a link between the contamination of the food chain by chemical substances and the epidemic of chronic diseases the World Health Organisation (WHO) is observing all over the world? This is an investigative documentary that sets out to answer this question and reviews many scientific studies that have been largely ignored: the current epidemic of cancers, neurological diseases and auto-immune disorders is closely linked to our exposure to the some 100,000 chemical molecules that have invaded our food and our environment. The enquiry highlights not only the harsh reality of the effects these chemicals are having on us, but also the food industry's and political decision-makers' lies and lack of transparency.

Through the correspondence between the actress Marion Cotillard, a climate change activist, and Marinel, a young Filipino, we explore the coasts left devastated by one of the greatest natural disasters ever recorded on the island, as well as solutions for preserving the future of the region.

In 2013 the Super Typhoon Haiyan hit the coasts of the Philippines, destroying towns and villages. Over 6000 people were killed and millions were left homeless. The film follows 16-year-old Marinel, one of many Filipinos taking action to save the archipelago from climate change-related catastrophes, through her encounters with individuals who have refused to abandon hope and are working to safeguard the Philippines. The journey ends on a note of triumph at the COP21 Climate Conference in Paris, where Marinel is propelled into the role of spokesperson and rubs shoulders with leading figures in the fight against climate change.

Human consciousness, which is unique in the living world, has remained a mystery of divine origin for thousands of years. But today, recent and spectacular scientific progress (from medical imagery to quantum physics) is starting to shed light on it.

I think therefore I am. But who thinks inside of us? Who are we? This film takes us on a journey beyond our brains. Like conscience, human intelligence has propelled Man to the peak of evolution, giving him the opportunity to dominate the world. And yet today, intelligence would see to have broken down. Average IQ is dropping. Through this investigation into the nature of intelligence and multiple intelligences, we discover the reasons for this breakdown, and how we can give our intelligence another boost, thanks to scientific progress, including brain cell transplants.

When is a new global epidemic going to strike? At a time when new viruses are emerging at an unprecedented rate, and as Ebola is claiming lives in West Africa, this in-depth investigation examines this invisible threat.

In the space of 60 years, over 350 new infectious diseases have appeared, including SARS, H1N1, H5N1 and Ebola. The emergence of viruses seems to be speeding up. Experts are unanimously wondering: when will a new world-wide epidemic strike? The Plague, the Spanish flu, smallpox, AIDS - history has undergone infectious episodes that have decimated populations. But what is the state of research today? Are we better prepared? This film traces 3 particularly threatening viruses: the H7N9 flu virus in Asia; the Mers-CoV virus, related to SARS, which is active in the Middle East; and the Ebola virus, which is striking terror in West Africa.

For a few years now, scientists have known about the existence of another brain within our bodies - billions of connected neurons, molecules (neurotransmitters) that transmit orders and induce independent reactions. This second brain, or "brain down below" is none other than our stomach.

It can function totally independently and carries out far more than just digestion. It reigns over a spectacular colony of one hundred thousand billion bacteria (our gut flora) whose activity is thought to have an impact on our personalities and decisions, and our shyness or temerity. Even more astonishing: certain diseases of the brain, like Parkinson's disease, for example, could stem from the degeneration of our intestinal neurons. And we could even treat our stomach pains with hypnosis - curing our stomachs by "talking to them". All these major discoveries have revolutionised our approach to an organ that was previously considered to be dull and passive. The stomach's intelligence is a new avenue of research that is fascinating research teams the world over. This film takes a look at it.

Scientists have proved that the mental faculties of high-performance athletes' are superior to the average brain. Today, psycho-cognitive training is carried out in certain major clubs and Olympic team, to push sportsmen and women even further. Studies now demonstrate its efficiency.

The performance of athletes has evolved considerably over the last twenty years, and the extraordinary talent of certain super-trained, veritable winning-machines is intriguing neuroscientists. As a result of technological progress, scientists now have the tools to be able to understand exactly what lies behind the talent of these unstoppable champions.

Through careful observation of outstanding athletes' brains, scientists have identified mechanisms of learning and gesture memorisation, in the core of these athletes' neurons.

They have been able to observe to what extent intensive physical training modifies the cerebral cortex, which gives high-performance sportspeople greater rapidity and more precision than anyone else in their particular sport. But the beneficial effects of their daily sports practice do not stop there; it also increases their cognitive capacities. More attentive and able to control their concentration effectively, these athletes use superior intelligence to read and anticipate their opponents' moves.

Will we soon be conceiving and growing babies outside women's bodies?

The very first baby conceived following a womb transplant was born in Sweden in 2014. The film relates this scientific undertaking, which has ignited hope among the 1 in 5,000 women born without a uterus, as well as among women who have lost their wombs to cancer or an accident. In France, two medical teams are currently preparing to embark upon a protocol designed for a small group of young women who do not have wombs. This medical exploit marks a new chapter in the fight against sterility. And as medical advances meet the concerns of society, transsexuals and homosexuals view it as the opportunity to experience pregnancy themselves. The prospect of babies developing entirely outside the womb in an artificial uterus is getting closer.

In 19th century Paris, for both political and economic reasons, Parisian prostitution became a social phenomenon on an unprecedented scale. From the seedy part of town to the salons of the wealthy bourgeoisie, Paris became the capital of sex.

During this industrial revolution era, doctors and moralists, cops and robbers, bosses and workers all used prostitution - and it inevitably attracted artists.

From the mid 19th century, it was as though prostitution had become a central, key theme of artistic creation. The film recounts the rise and metamorphosis of prostitution in the 19th century, through the eyes of artists, and the pictorial revolution that accompanied it. By exploring the representation of prostitution in 19th century arts, the film dwells on this very specific moment in the history of the "world's oldest profession".

Diego Velàzquez, the artist ceaselessly in search of the human truth through the treatment of the light and the space and in the way he roams around things, is a documentary maker before his time. His work full of boldness marks an essential stage in the history of paint.

From the paints of Velázquez and especially what gets free of it, the movie goes off to explore the peculiarity of the "painter of the painters" and of the artistic and esthetic revolution which Diego Velázquez caused. Since the "Venus with a Mirror" up to the mirror of Ménines, the movie escapes any didactisme and attempts to recreate the exceptional emotional link between the work of Velázquez and the look of the public, between the eye of the painter and the one of the spectator. Between his life and our lives.

Plunge into Parisian life at the turn of the 20th Century with Picasso, Dali, Apollinaire, Man Ray, Kiki and more...

Adapted from Dan Franck's literary trilogy Bohemian Paris, Libertad!, Midnight - The documentary series made up of six episodes plunges us into Parisian life in the beginning of the twentieth century, a hotbed of artistic creation with the blossoming of Fauvism, Cubism, Dadaism, and surrealism.

Through illustrations, animation and original archives, the film will trace the highs and lows, scandals and celebrations, tragedies and the triumphs that shaped the phenomenal period of Modern Art from the basement of the "Bateau-lavoir" in 1900 to the last shudders of World War II.

The main characters are called Picasso, Max Jacob, Stein, Apollinaire, Hemingway, Matisse, Cocteau, Kiki... artists, art dealers, muses who came to France from all over Europe and left an indelible mark on the 20th century. These glorious subversives were adventurers before becoming heroes.

As famous in his time as Picasso, the painter Bernard Buffet experienced glory but it was followed by a fall from grace.

Today, he has finally achieved recognition. Despite his inimitable style, he was marginalised for half a century on account of his popular success, his millionaire's lifestyle and his contempt for the art world. A look back over the life of a controversial artist, today considered a precursor of Pop Art.

This documentary film explores the secret inspiration and the little known influences of a painter whose canvasses are much less naïve than they appear to be.

Henri Rousseau started to paint in Paris around 1880, at the age of 40. This self-taught artist was friendly with the poet Apollinaire, Robert Delaunay and Pablo Picasso, who recognized his genius, and yet his work was to remain underrated during his lifetime. However, with its dislocated compositions and profoundly dreamlike subject matter, it was to have a decisive influence on modern art, from surrealism to abstract art.

This collection explores history of art in a totally new way. Each film is a journey, an investigation and an adventure. The painting comes to life, as animation overrides the limits of the frame, taking us to the heart of the canvass and plunging us into its era and history.

The great works of the past portray abundant testimonies, and are imbued with secrets and are teeming with mysteries. Beneath the surface of the painting, details awaken, to recount the spirit of the times and the vagaries of History, such as wars, revolutions, economic transformation, scientific discovery, beliefs and schools of thought.

Placing the art of design in its sociological and technological context, the DESIGN collection tells the story of the 20th century through the industrial objects that have made their mark on it. The objects reflect their time, while at the same time anticipating the future.

Just like a piece of art, an industrial object is a mirror of its era, though in a more direct and explicit manner than a painting or a sculpture. The industrial object obeys two fundamental criteria: It needs to be functional, perform its task in daily life - and after all must be sold. Therefore, it has to be technically innovative and esthetically pleasant.

The series, rather than explaining last century's objects, uses them to zoom on different periods. Which invites the audience not so much on a tour through museums, but on a journey in time. Archive images illustrate the political, social and cultural situation of a defined chapter from our past, via film extracts, cultural presentations, popular music etc. The history of the object itself, its conception, creators, fabrication and a contemporary frame story join in to build a bridge between the past and the present.

Every snapshot is an enigma, the capture of an instant that remains frozen in time. But what happened before? and after? Or just outside of frame? The sublime series now retraces the adventure of this art form, from its beginnings to the present, revealing the hidden stories and trade secrets concealed in a series of photographs.

Every photograph is an enigma. A moment locked into a rectangle. We will never know what happened just before it was taken, or just next to it.

What had to be moved, adjusted, waited for or provoked for all the elements to suddenly come together in the frame and produce an image that once seen, is never forgotten?

Compared to painting, the rules of the photography game are incredibly simple, requiring nothing more than a few pieces in a minimalist game of chess - a subject, a frame, light, a lens, a shutter, and a base. The importance of these pieces varies according to their position, and they are moved around permanently in relation to each other.

The collection invites viewers to discover from the inside "how it's done", and imagine themselves as actors in the complex game that is played out between photography and the real.

ANDRÉ BRINK, THE AFRICAN

The committed portrait of a writer who is a symbol of the antiapartheid struggle. Born in 1935 into an Afrikaans family that were sympathetic to racial segregation, André Brink rejected his family heritage and, via subversive novels, campaigned constantly in favour of the Rainbow Nation.

Once Nelson Mandela had become president, he said to Brink: "When I was in prison, you changed the way I viewed the world". André Brink is well known for his novel "A Dry White Season", which won France's Medicis foreign book prize in 1982.

But who is the man behind this powerful oeuvre, of which one or two novels very probably helped change the course of History? André Brink's life is interwoven with the history of South Africa, from the establishment of apartheid to the present day. His life was one of struggle. He lived an artist's life to the full - involving women, travel and important encounters, and a major part of post-1950 intellectual life. Albert Camus was his model and May 68, a determining experience.

With him, we explore the issues of how he managed to free himself from the conservative "Boer" values of his childhood, and how he resisted the temptation of a comfortable exile in Paris, returning instead to the lion's den, writing subversive novels.

Techno celebrated its 25th birthday in 2013. It has become a culture in its own right, ranking among trendy music, and bringing together millions of people worldwide.

Its DJs have become veritable stars. It is a global, worldwide culture, and its creators and fans alike share its common denominators of hedonism, a thirst for freedom, and a sense of suspended time via its musical trances.

Thanks to Internet, but also thanks to emblematic festivals, the Techno movement is today undergoing exponential growth. What are the codes and the creative processes of this worldwide culture? Who are the leading players of this global movement? How does this music influence contemporary creation, and increasingly, the economy?

A captivating discovery, to the rhythm of the school calendar, of the path followed by several students and the philosophy of an institution, where social and community involvement is as much part of the curriculum as the artistic teaching.

One of a kind, the Juilliard School is a school of excellence, the most selective in the United States. The long list of its graduates, which includes Pina Bausch, Kevin Spacey and Miles Davis, is both prestigious and eclectic, and other art schools around the globe are pale with envy.

The 300-year old Paris Opera Ballet School is today a mythical place with an international reputation. In September 2011, it was home to 130 pupils, aged from 8 to 18, all driven by the same desire - to dance one day at the Paris Opera.

Our camera was allowed to accompany them for a whole school year.

The characters are: the younger students, who are amazingly determined for their age; the older students, who, at the age of 16, are already professional dancers; their teachers, who are often principal dancers; and all those who watch over this very singular world. This 6-part chronicle of life at the school reveals the extraordinary mechanics of precision that lead the students to the threshold of the Corps de Ballet.

A rapid, dazzling 3-part panorama centred on nudity, atypical bodies and feet.

3 brand new documentaries explore the major figures of group dance, duet and solo.

Examining these figures takes us to the very heart of the practice of dance - the multiple forms of dance - reflecting on their techniques, sensuality, discipline, body language, physical characteristics, reasoning and lineage. The collection follows the creative process of solo, duet and group choreography, and in doing so, sheds light on the elements that have forged their history.

Though Sissako's films have become world-famous, the man himself remains a mystery, marked by the paradoxes of exile.

The film takes us into the intimate world of Abderrahmane Sissako, through 3 key locations of his life - Mali, Mauritania and Russia. There, he meets up with 3 friends of his (Elia Suleiman, Haïle Gerima and Tony Gatlif), with whom he exchanges stories and confidences. The film revolves around three of his movies (Bamako, Waiting for Happiness. Octobre) and the three movies that sparked his desire to start directing (Antonioni's The Passenger, Tarkovsky's Andrei Rubley, and Fellini's La Strada).

This fascinating portrait is for anyone who has ever been captivated by Alain Delon's dashing good looks, and for anyone who wants to know more about the man behind the mask. By the end of the film they will view this famous French icon in a totally different light.

A portrait of Alain Delon that sets out to remove the masks of this defence-ridden, international icon - for the very first time. The portrait focuses entirely on its main subject - it is "pure Delon", with no other interviewees. Via numerous film excerpts, it follows the actor's path right from the start. Delon speaks in a series of surprising interviews, spanning nearly 50 years. At the end of this breathtaking journey, a new vision emerges: Alain Delon, the man of 87 movies and the most handsome face in French cinema, remains a mystery.

The word "Borsalino" today designates a felt hat. The Borsalino family brand has become a household name, like that of Tupperware, Kleenex or Walkman.

The quality felt hat, born in a small family factory in Alessandria in the 1850s, rose in status from manufactured object to veritable international myth when the craftsmanship of a small provincial town met the Hollywood dream. This film recounts the history of the manufacture of this myth, which has close ties to the history of cinema in the early 20th century.

How, in the space of a few years, did Buster Keaton, the uncontested genius of silent films, go from the status of being a widely-worshipped star to an alcoholic and solitary fallen idol?

With a spotlight on the 7 years during which his life changed, using extracts of Keaton's films as magnifying mirrors, the film recounts the dramatic life of this creative genius and the Hollywood studios. Was it yet another episode of the never-ending struggle to hold onto one's freedom in the face of financiers?

Rocky IV is an emblematic movie, and constitutes a chapter in popular culture. When it was released in 1985, audiences from all over the world flocked to movie theatres. Rocky IV hits the spot, hard.

Rocky IV is dually symbolic - it embodies both the victory of the American boxer over the Soviet one and the victory of neo-liberalism over a dwindling socialism. The film fed a global popular culture that steamrolled everything in the US, in Europe and in the Eastern bloc countries.

Still today, Rocky is held up as a model by some and is a subject of derision for others. An emblem of the 1980s, its culture and its heroes, the film will be the subject of an entertaining analysis of popular culture - which in itself is highly political.

After leaving Sennett's Keystone Studios, where he had spent his year of apprenticeship in cinema, Charles Chaplin became a worldwide star at 10 times his former salary by joining The Essanay Film Manufacturing Company in January 1915. For the first time, his name was on the credits (the series was called "Essanay-Chaplin brand"), and Essanay was the first to sell merchandising rights for a movie character.

In one year, Chaplin was to star in and direct 16 hilarious films, including his iconic The Tramp - each release breaking a new record in sales. Like the two previous series (Keystone and Mutual), these will be newly restored. They will sparkle! The restoration of the Essanay comedies will conclude the restoration of the Chaplin films, now 100 years old, and will amaze future generations in their second century.

In 1916, after a 2-year long career, Chaplin is already the most paid actor in the world. He signs for 12 new comedies with Mutual Film Corp. He has his own studio, and total control of the production of his films: unprecedented.

These 12 comedies shot between 1916 and 1917 are a fireworks of humor, invention and fun, maybe what Chaplin has done best in all his career. Success after success, the character of The tramp becomes more complex, and films like The Vagabond, One A.m. Or the Immigrant are jewels of skill and sophistication.

These ultimate restorations are the result of 3 long years of research in the world, and technological achievements. One century after their first release, these films do not have a wrinkle, and the pleasure of watching them is intact. Chaplin said "Shooting the Mutual comedies was the best moment of my life"

The entire collection of Méliès' films - from the well known to the rediscovered Méliès' films enchant people of all ages. As well as being a pioneer, he remains the uncontested master of fantasy and dream worlds, and was the first and most incredible wizard of cinema.

For the first time, viewers can now appreciate the importance of his work - that of a magician and artist whose imagination knew no bounds. The exceptionally talented Méliès produced and directed all his films. He also wrote the "sweet talk", designed the sets, costumes and accessories, and was also the main actor.

Following 25 years of research, and a worldwide search for copies, this collection constitues a genuine reference. The latest technology has been used on these newly restored films, many of which are available for the first time. The spirit of the era is rendered by 13 musicians.

The job-hunt jungle, the fringe economy, the hassles of switching employers almost as often as you change your socks - life reduced to the net hourly wage... A comical chronicle of the world of temping.

Seb and Elise are adventurers, on the lookout for the slightest job. They get brief glimpses of what goes on in the world of work, when company doors swing open for an instant. But then the door slams shut and they're outside, awaiting their next contract.

Supermarket checker, pizza deliverer, "interactive" actor, sorter at the recycling center... Their temporary jobs are tedious and/or absurd, their bosses are toxic, and their customers are obnoxious.

3 Knights - total losers - explore the confines of the known world, because their King has given them a mission: "Take a hike and try to find me". In fact, the King wants to get rid of them because of their supreme stupidity. But the 3 Knights take their mission literally, and set off on a hike to try and find the King.

On their journey, they travel across foreign territories and confront the enemies living in these hostile regions! At the end of the season, the 3 Knights, who will have braved many dangers and killed all baddies, will make an incredible discover: they have indeed found the King.

"You'll Die Smarter" is for those who skipped biology or physics lessons but who vaguely remember what gravity and white blood cells are, and who think that lasers are cool, but would like to know a bit more. And if possible, not have to make too much of an effort, oh, and also have fun. Because learning the fun way is the best way to remember it all.

How far does a prawn travel before ending up in a supermarket? How much time goes by between the time a cow arrives and the time its meat is refrigerated in the form of a steak?

Focusing on industrially produced goods, "Product"'s subjective camera accesses various manufacturing chains in different countries. Combining a fascination for the processes with a form of unveiling, the series documents the various stages of manufacture, and sets out to meet the communities and discover the technologies involved in them. "Product" aims to decode a globalised industry in which the end products mask the realities of their manufacture.

Isabelle Adjani is Carole Matthieu - a workplace physician employed in a call center who has become emotionally involved in the suffering of her humiliated coworkers, exposed to both physical and emotional violence. Powerless to stop the endless flow of employees that come to see her on a daily basis, she decides to take action one evening.

When one employee, whom she has previously saved from a suicide attempt, comes to see her, she decides to end it all.... for him. In a frantic race against time, police search for a culprit, unions dither on the stance they should take, and the management tries to keep up a front, to hold on to their market share.

Despite these obstacles, and the doubt and guilt consuming her, the slayer-cumsaviour workplace angel is determined to recount "the other story", using notes, letters and medical records. The story of men and women, crushed under the mechanics of performance and profit.

After ten years in prison, Céline is free. Between rebirth and relapse, "The Object of Curiosity" sketches her return to daily life and the discovery of a new romance.

Laurent Perrea, director:

It is not a tale of escape but of liberation. I want to give Céline a second chance, to allow her to inhabit the film for the time and space of its duration, and to make her a soldier on the frontline - valiant, courageous, touching and resolute in her desire to live, finally. It's rare for a director to have the chance to actually meet the character he had previously imagined. With Laura Smet, I have been given that chance. Her story connects with and adds weight to Céline's.

This drama is Valeria Bruni Tedeschi's adaptation of Anton Chekhov's favourite play.

In a small garrison town, lost in the middle of the Russian countryside, three young women, who arrived there with their late father, a former brigade commander, dream of returning to Moscow where they spent their childhood. Entertained by military visits, the sisters find a semblance of a life. Macha, who married her dull husband at too early an age, falls in love with a commander. Olga finds renewed enthusiasm for life and Irina becomes engaged to a lieutenant.

But it is soon time for the troops to leave, the youngest sister's fiancé dies in a duel, and solitude once again takes over the lives of these three women, who become disillusioned recluses. The chronicle of several years of a life on the fringes of history and modernity, this four-act drama is an ironic portrayal of a youth without perspective or illusion, as though frozen in a deadly era. The strange mirror of a drifting country, Three Sisters captures the image of a society on the brink of a destiny that cannot be, and that is aware of its imminent end.

With: Eric RUF, Bruno RAFFAELLI, Florence VIALA, Coraly ZAHONERO, Laurent STOCKER, Michel VUILLERMOZ, Elsa LEPOIVRE, Gilles DAVID, Stéphane VARUPENNE, Georgia SCALLIET, Danièle LEBRUN and Michel ROBIN, Bernard NISSILE from the Comédie-Française.
