Via six masterpieces, the film reveals the beauty of the spirit of Versailles of the 17th and 18th centuries. A unique homage to the people that crafted it, the furniture reveals the personal tastes of its commissioners, and portrays something that has ceased to exist!

These unique items of furniture that once belonged to Louis 14th, Louis 15th, Marie-Antoinette and Louis 16th have fascinating stories to tell: the tortoise-shell chest-of-drawers with inlays of brass; an astronomical clock - a veritable miracle of science; the most emblematic example of French furniture art in the world - the King's Desk; and the exquisite items made for Marie-Antoinette - the queen's jewellery case and the wheat-sheaf furniture.

This documentary recounts his story and through the man's story, that of the so-called "Action T4", which consisted of eliminating physical and mental disabilities and those people considered by the Nazi regime to be useless or "asocial".

Doctor Julius Hallervorden, a major name in the science of brain pathology, first benefited from, then contributed to the systematic assassination ordered by Hitler of German mentally ill persons, by recovering the brains of 690 victims. He nevertheless pursued a brilliant post-war career, in all impunity, and died covered in honours.

Between 1939 and 1945, at least 200,000 ill people were assassinated.

Soviet archives house the only filmed memories of the Holocaust. Following the German invasion, the Soviets decided to put their know-how into practice and to film the enemy's fearsome extermination machine, for their own purposes. The images of war from the period were inspired by a cinematographic tradition of aestheticism, but were also dependent on political considerations. Taken on the fly, these images represent reality. But what reality? This strategy of "war-by-image" creates a black hole: the identity of the victims.

The Jews are forgotten. Mentioning the Jews goes against the idea of a Great Patriotic War. Examining the images recorded during this dark period means looking anew at what was not filmed, but also at the messages transmitted and the arrangements made with the truth. Do "images-as-truth" lie?

Why does 3 quarters of European electronic waste escape recycling and end up illegally in landfill?

In the suburbs of Accra, the capital of Ghana, children play at dismantling scrapped electronic equipment, surrounded by foul smelling and toxic fumes, in a sadly-famous, uncontrolled rubbish dump. The film takes this site as its point of departure, and is driven forward by Ghanaian journalist Mike Anane, who is an expert on the environment. He wants to know why his country has become the trash can of the developed countries.

This lucid and efficient investigation by Cosima Danneritzer (The Light Bulb Conspiracy) into several European countries, Asia and the U.S., reveals the apparatus of large-scale trafficking, as well as a complex chain of responsibility and collusion.

A documentary series about art and Gastronomy. Beginning with a famous masterpiece, historians, art historians and historians of food take us on a journey through food history and art. Acting as detectives, they give us keys in order to understand the painting and the painter, the historical context and how people ate at that time While the specialists deal with those topics, a three-stars chef explains what the masterpiece inspires in him and explains what he (or she) is going to cook as a result.

The chef is the guide of the show. He or she may interact with the specialists (accompanying them to a museum and asking the curator to give him some information about the painting for instance).

At the end, everyone who took part in the program meets with the chef at his restaurant (or in a place chosen by the chef) for a final discussion.

Created by Mademoiselle Agnès and Loïc Prigent, hosted by Mademoiselle Agnès, the series is shot during the New York, Milan and Paris fashion weeks.

This is a hilarious, irreverent and insightful report about the whole fashion world: the trends, the business and of course, the people.

For now almost 10 years, LALALA has been producing the bi-annual TV show about fashion, Dressed for Summer and Dressed for Winter .

Meet Mademoiselle Agnès, French fashion reporter. She is in the heart of the action, running on 5-inches heels. Front row and backstage, she collects all the secrets, confidences and gossips for a funny insight of the fashion world.

New York Times : "Mademoiselle Agnès is the rare personality who can approach a runway show as if nothing, or no one, in fashion is sacred, which is why it was not surprising to find her lurking outside the ateliers of Dior and Yves Saint Laurent last week to stick a camera in the face of Anna Wintour."

This documentary plunges viewers into the day-to-day lives of influential female bloggers and models, and decodes the phenomenon of 2.0 fashion, via interviews with web and fashion experts.

Instagram, Pinterest, Facebook, Tumblr, Vine, Twitter ... there is no end to the number of social networks on which the "It-Girls" can publish a profusion of photos and comments about their day-to-day lives. These practices have become truly democratized, and represent an "open-book personal diary", in which every publication posted expresses an uninhibited narcissism. How does one become an Instagram or Tumblr star?

What if we watched Jean Paul Gaultier at work giving the definitive master class on what constitutes the essence of his work? Jean Paul Gaultier's work is making clothes, not putting on fashion shows, producing perfume, talking to the media or presenting programs on MTV. But making clothes. He sketches them, of course, but more importantly, he creates them by draping them, constructing them around the body of the fitting model.

Twelve of Jean Paul Gaultier's most iconic creations are re-created directly onto a fitting model, in front of the camera, in understated, white surroundings. Ten women's outfits and two men's outfits.

HD

Jean Paul Gaultier is with his head seamstress, Mireille. With a stock of materials at his disposal, he proceeds to create the "toile". In Haute Couture, the "toile" is the first stage, carried out using untreated, beige linen, which enables appraisal of the style. Like a first draft, the moment during which everything can still be changed, before the creation takes on its final shape. Jean Paul Gaultier at work can be viewed as a sequence shot, in which the garments materialize before our eyes, revealing how his thought process develops between ideas and material. Gaultier's oeuvre, recounted by himself, in the first person - like a lasting legacy of creativity.

A documentary about a worldwide phenomenon of society that profoundly jeopardises our personal freedom.

After the terrorist attacks of 11 September 2001, the United States granted itself exceptional and unimaginable powers of control and surveillance over all citizens in and beyond the US via mobile phone taps, and via unlimited access to personal emails, to computer hard disks and to all data produced by citizens in their personal and professional lives. This data, either disclosed in the eyes of the world or kept secret, could potentially serve securitarian states, whose unconfessed objective is to know everything about everybody.

In the space of forty years, Karaoke has become a global phenomenon that has spread across all social classes and is now a planet-wide popular activity. Who hasn't spent an evening in a Karaoke bar?

Following candidates for the Karaoke World Championships in Finland, and in their countries of origin - Spain, Japan, the Philippines and Holland - we look at the origins of the phenomenon, its history and its cultural and social impact.

Today, the karaoke social phenomenon has permeated all fields of pop culture. Does that mean we can speak of a "Karaoke culture"?

Since the late 2000s and the start of the "Mad Men" series, a retro wave has swept over Western pop culture.

From the cinema (an Oscar for "The Artist", and "Gatsby" with Leonardo Di Caprio presented at Cannes), to television ("The Hours", "Peaky Blinders" and "Fleming"), via fashion with Dita Von Teese's version of the fifties' figure, and the Swing Kids' look of the 1930s - never before has our present been so imbued with the past. The culture of creation may be taking a look in the rear-view mirror, but young urbanites have taken things a step further by turning retro culture into a veritable way of day-to-day life.

In Paris, New York, Berlin and London, this "neo-retro" community adopts not only a quaint appearance, but also the values and codes of the era (the 1920s to the 1960s). Some denounce the stagnation of pop culture over the last couple of decades and see this retro culture as a sign of a certain cultural regression, but many others believe vintage culture enables us to better live in the present.

The film recounts this "retro-mania" and what it says about our contemporary society.

On a hot evening of June, 1969, the police raids the "Stonewall Inn", a gay bar in New York City. Nothing out of the ordinary, since homosexuals were then often persecuted. But that night, the clients decided to fight back against the police forces all night long. This event is the starting point of a movement that would lead to the decriminalization of homosexuality in many countries in the world.

In the history of gays and lesbians, Stonewall is a tipping point. For up until that event, it was complicated to talk about homosexuality in movies, in music, even in literature. However, some writers, artists, but also private citizens, gave birth to a burgeoning gay culture that is hard to imagine today, since our collective memory has erased the very possibility of a homosexual expression before sexual liberation!

HD

The first chapter of this documentary explores these "hidden" years, the underground culture as well as a culture of gay subtexts, still very much alive today. Since the evolution of LGBT rights (Lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender) has accompanied the evolution of a gay culture that gradually managed to express itself more freely, the second part tells the story of the "after Stonewall": how gay culture came out of the closet, and into the mainstream.

In the mythical Eastern Ethiopian city of Harar, man and hyenas live in peace. Here, on the outskirts of the city, Youssouf Mume Saleh, or the "Hyena-man" as he is known, feeds a clan of spotted hyenas every evening. Elsewhere in the Horn of Africa, these animals can terrorize populations, but as Youssouf says himself, the hyenas are part of his family. He has given a name to each one of them.

Youssouf is one of the last guardians of a tradition that is over one hundred years old. Long ago, Harar signed a non-aggression pact with the hyenas, and that pact still exists today. The wild hyenas roam the streets of the city freely, and locals are not worried. They need these natural "rubbish collectors". In addition, the hyenas of Hara protect the population from attack by foreign hyenas.

At a time when all over the world conflicts between man and wild animals are increasing, here exists a unique relationship of cohabitation between man and a major carnivore. This film recounts the story of this exceptional and fascinating man-animal relationship.

Sarah Schwartz has been travelling the world, from big top to big top, for over twenty years. She has made the circus her world. A high wire at her feet leads her from one country to the next. In this collection, she invites us behind the scenes of the circus dream, revealing its highly singular world. Taking part in a convoy with Sarah Schwarz means discovering a country in a different way: through the steamed up window of a caravan, a different shade of world goes past, a nomadic world, a world of freedom.

With Sarah, we set out to discover a universe that will help us understand the countries visited, bringing us wisdom and knowledge, but also magic and poetry. From the family circus to contemporary circus, from the travelling circus to the permanent circus, we discover countries that are different from each other, yet are all planets in the same galaxy. Roll up, roll up, for a magical, brightly coloured world tour!

A generous and poetic road movie, off the beaten track. On his old orange Mobylette, François Skyvington invites us on a unique trip around France and Germany. Taking side roads and byroads, he lets us in on his fun and informative one-of-a-kind encounters.

Director and author (of "My Beautiful Mobylette", published by Ouest France), François Skyvington has, in the past, been a globetrotter, a courier, a fairground worker, an antique-dealer and a barman. An adventurer in search of new encounters and stories, he travels through France and Germany on his old orange moped from Arles to Munich, via Ushant and Berlin.

Setting out to discover sexuality in the world's 14 major megacities, this sensual and libertine collection provides an entertaining and fascinating journey into sexual practices the world over.

Is sex experienced the same way in all 4 corners of the world? Unlikely! Because the men and women of each city tell of specific identities. There are those that fake it and those that really do make it! There are all sorts of fetishists and their perversions. There are those that change gender, etc. A series that won't let you down - and won't leave you feeling indifferent!

Discovering the world via its winds is the wild gamble of Arthur de Kersauson, a young urban adventurer who is curious, amusing and thirsty for knowledge.

For us, he sets out in search of: the Mistral in France, the Trade Winds in Reunion Island, the Chergui in Morocco, the Lodos in Turkey, the Blizzard in Quebec and the Loo in India.

The wind carves out the landscape of a country, and shapes its inhabitants, customs and culture. These entertaining and incisive road movies lead our traveller to make enriching and moving encounters, which are sometimes zany, and always exotic.

A keen extreme sportsman, Arthur also takes advantage of his quest to discover wind activities, in each country he travels through.

In February 2013 a film crew led by documentary filmmaker David Sington will leave Montevideo in Uruguay for a voyage across the South Atlantic into the stormiest waters on Earth.

Their destination will be a rendezvous with the Saga Sea, a high-technology trawler operating in the Antarctic Ocean. It will be a voyage to the latest and possibly last frontier between industrial civilization and the natural world, in search of a mysterious sea creature which for decades has held the promise of transforming human nutrition: krill. Could the exploitation of krill improve diet across the globe, or will it simply lead to the collapse of one of the most important ecosystems on the planet?

Should cancer really be understood and treated as a "disease of the genes" or could another avenue - which was once abandoned but has now been taken up again - enable us to understand and treat it?

Researchers and doctors in various countries think so, and want to revolutionise treatment. For them, cancer is a disorder of cellular metabolism, which could be treated with a few simple molecules. This film invites us to take stock of their research.

When is a new global epidemic going to strike? At a time when new viruses are emerging at an unprecedented rate, and as Ebola is claiming lives in West Africa, this in-depth investigation examines this invisible threat.

In the space of 60 years, over 350 new infectious diseases have appeared, including SARS, H1N1, H5N1 and Ebola. The emergence of viruses seems to be speeding up. Experts are unanimously wondering: when will a new world-wide epidemic strike? The Plague, the Spanish flu, smallpox, AIDS - history has undergone infectious episodes that have decimated populations. But what is the state of research today? Are we better prepared? This film traces 3 particularly threatening viruses: the H7N9 flu virus in Asia; the Mers-CoV virus, related to SARS, which is active in the Middle East; and the Ebola virus, which is striking terror in West Africa.

Via the epic of continental drift, we travel to all 4 corners of the planet, to meet scientists who are carrying out state-of-the-art research on the most emblematic landscapes of each geological event.

With these scientists, and thanks to their work, we discover the sites in a new light - landscapes that we often see but rarely look at closely. The journey also establishes the key reference points of life alongside the geologic time scale - the appearance of life, of plants, of terrestrial life, dinosaurs and Man punctuate the geologic time scale.

This series of movie of 26 minutes, shows how a painted image echos the spirit of her time, to a particular historic event. She reveals the poetic, sociological and political potential of the picture by penetrating inside the painting by underlining details thanks to a work of computer graphics which livens up characters, objects and sets. Every movie will tell the fascinating story of a creator and its production.

Everyone knows the Hobbit and the Lord of the Rings, now discover the universe of Tolkien and the legends that inspired them.

John Howe, the famous illustrator of Tolkien's novels and the conceptual artist for Peter Jackson's films, decided to find out more, and set off in search of the legends - and the places that gave rise to them.

From the enchanted forest of Brocéliande to the sets of the New Zealand studios, Looking for the Hobbit plunges us into a universe we could never imagine existed. A quest to the very roots of our imagination.

Marcello Mastroianni, one of the greatest cinema icons, is much more than a playboy. Throughout his 40 year-long career, with his unique style, he has personified every single aspect of the Italian male : charisma, melancholic tenderness, self-mockery, cleverness and a natural gift for appealing to all.

The film allows the actor to speak for himself, revealing the true Marcello, a genuinely nice man, as remembered by his daughters, Barbara and Chiara, his friends, Sophia Loren and Claudia Cardinale, and young Italian stars, Alessandro Gassman and Kim Rossi-Stuart.
