Gutenberg is responsible for the most significant invention of the medieval period: movable type printing. How could such an invention have come about in 15th-century Europe?

This ambitious docudrama aims at showing exactly that: the struggle of an inventor who challenged the society of his time. This is an epic tale, with a protagonist who is by turns tenacious, cantankerous, shrewd, bold, cunning, epicurean, and passionate. It is a timeless story full of challenges, visionary ideas, alliances and betrayals. The birth of printing and Gutenberg's adventurous life make up the rollicking tale of an invention that would change the world.

As it unfolds the century-long history of the collapse of the Ottomans, the film offers an in-depth understanding of the impact the process had on the former Ottoman territories, up to the present time.

For six centuries, the Ottomans had ruled over three continents and seven seas. On the ruins of the Ottoman Empire, a whole new world was created. That is the purpose of this two-part film: analysing these new lines of fracture in order to remind how the Ottoman past still matters. Without appropriate knowledge and understanding of this page of history, no one could pretend grasping fully the current political, religious and ethnic challenges of our present time - in Bosnia, in Kosovo, in Turkey, in Lebanon, in Syria, in Israel, in Palestine, in Irak...

Tales of love, sex, power, betrayal, heinous crimes, unbearable separations, atrocious revenge, and metamorphoses - the poetic force of the myths has crossed the centuries.

This series sets out to recount these ancient stories using animations created especially for the occasion, and illustrations chosen from the entire history of art. This dynamic blend, a bridge between modernity and history, ancient narrative and contemporary dramatic art, is a new way to discover or re-discover this part of our universal heritage.

To show the Russian Revolution in a new light, we recount it as though for the first time, through a narrative that is immersed in the reality of the events from February to October 1917.

The aim is to arouse in viewers something similar to the dizzying blend of elation and anxiety experienced by the actors of the Revolution - in their presence, hearing their own words, and seeing things from their perspective. This calls for a dual narrative - one immediate, sensitive and unpredictable: Maxim Gorky, the other cold, like history, tactical, always planning the next move: Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

Both the writer and the leader of the revolution were haunted by the failure of the last great European revolution, the Paris Commune in 1871. But they drew diametrically opposed lessons from it, as borne out in their obsessions and their temperaments.

People have always been fascinated by the violent crimes, accidents and suicides reported in "News in brief" columns. Unjustly disdained by historians and generally left to the sensationalist press, these news stories tell us much about the societies that spawned them and the later generations that keep reviving them.

Sensational news stories act as intermittent reminders of how minor or major transgressions can wreck our lives. Each episode in this series revisits a page of our shared history, meticulously decoding and deconstructing a sensational news item.

This drama-documentary tells the tragic story of 7 young airmen - one Canadian and 6 British, who died in the Hautes-Pyrenees, in July 1944. A page of Resistance history was written there.

On the night on July 13th, a four-engine Halifax Bomber of the RAF loaded down with weapons, ammunition and money, takes off from Blida in Algeria with its 7-man crew. Its mission: resupply by parachute the Resistance Fighters of Nistos. The aircraft crashes at the foot of Douly's Peak. Was it a navigational error or a coordination problem with the Resistance? Nobody knows. The crash enables the Resistance to gain a decisive upper hand over the German forces. Since then, Douly's Peak has become a symbolic place in its own right, for an entire generation of pilots, a sacrificed generation, heroes who freely volunteered to fight Nazism and support the French Résistance at any price.

Mussolini's mistress and advisor, remains a nearly forgotten woman in the Duce's entourage. 20 years of intense, loving, and reciprocal passion. For Mussolini, Margherita was his shadow, his phantom, and his speechwriter. She was the Duce's "other wife". She was Jewish.

Born in 1880 in a 15th-century palace on the edge of the old ghetto of Venice, Margherita Sarfatti spent the rest of her youth in the Palazzo Bembo on the Grand Canal. Her father wanted her to have the best tutors.

But that did not prevent her from becoming a militant socialist and, later, one of the most listened to members of the party, and yet, an avant-garde feminist. Her salon, first in Milan then in Rome, attracted famous composers, writers, and artists from Italy and abroad. She loved to collect "precious people". In 1923, she had the first Novecento exhibition in Milan opened by her lover, Benito Mussolini.

This is the story of Anarchism. By going back over the key events of the last two centuries of social history, the series reveals, for the first time, the origins and destiny of a political trend that has been fighting all masters and all gods for over 150 years.

Who exactly are they? Where do those who have always called themselves anarchists come from and what is their line of thought? Why do we consider their thinking to be confused and their history such a cause for concern?

Featuring previously unseen and forgotten archive footage, in addition to outstanding documentation and accounts by world experts, this documentary series recounts the history of a movement that from Paris to New York, and from Tokyo to Buenos Aires, has constantly imbued the world with its freedom and revolt.

Following World War I, in a traumatised Europe, educationalists believed that a world without violence was possible.

In France, Germany, the United Kingdom, Poland, the USSR and Italy, figures like Maria Montessori, Célestin Freinet, Ovide Decroly and Alexander S. Neill profoundly changed ideas on education, through a child-centred approach to teaching.

The rise to power of totalitarian ideologies hit their utopian dream with full force.

This is one of the greatest survival stories of all time : it's about a group of young men who managed to survive for 72 days at an altitude of 4.000 metres, in the heart of the Andes, after their plane had crashed there in October 1972... The sixteen survivors tell their story as never before.

As a filmmaker and childhood friend of several of them, Gonzalo ARIJON had undertaken the task of making an in-depth documentary film - something never before attempted - with the whole group of Survivors.

But beyond this "unbelievable story of cannibalism", the film attempts to bring out the very essence of this experience, one both intensely intimate and wholly collective, a strong parable on the human condition.

This cinematographic challenge has been made possible because of the distance in time since it all happened, and because of our friendship which made a pact of absolute trust between us.

Also there has been the complicity of Cesar Charlone (Cinematographer of films such as "City of God", "The Constant Gardener", co-director of "El Bano del Papa" selected this year at the Cannes Film Festival), another member of this childhood friends who ought, by rights, to have been on that same flight.

With Charlone's sensitive camera, the director has attempted to suggest the closed universe described by the protagonists, to materialize the indescribable.

Over two films, this documentary reveals the formation and disintegration, within our own time, of a neighbouring European State named Yugoslavia.

Part One covers the period from 1918 to 1980, the year of Marshal Tito's death, and explores the circumstances surrounding Yugoslavia's foundation, as well as the years of unity beneath the banner of Tito's version of communism. Part Two (1980-2001) concerns the catastrophic circumstances that befell the country from the dissolution of communism up until its final collapse during the five fratricidal wars. Weaved into Part Two will be an exploration of the current state of affairs in the former Yugoslavian States today, from which vital lessons can be drawn for contemporary fissiparous struggles in the Ukraine and elsewhere.

Estimated at 7 billion Euros a year, the traffic of art is the third largest traffic activity in the world, after drugs and weapons. It constitutes the grounds for a global clash between States, traffickers, auction houses, collectors and NGOs.

How is the traffic of art encouraged and used to legitimise authority, whether economic or political? From Paris to Beijing, via Geneva and Luxembourg, this documentary, in the form of an international investigation, highlights the double talk by States in relation to the traffic of cultural property, as well as the rise of the private players who benefit from it.

With the arrival in power of Nobel Peace Prize winner Aung San Suu Kyi, Burma discovered a newfound freedom. But the country is facing a worrying problem with the rise of a fierce nationalist sentiment targeting the Muslim community of the Rohingya people, and spread by a group of extremist Buddhist monks.

What role do the 500,000 monks really play in this country where feelings run high? Is Burmese Buddhism a racist and nationalistic movement? What lies behind the monastic orders?

Three monks - each engaged on their own path in a Burma in search of identity - express their views, their concerns, and their hopes. One speaks in defense of the Lady of Rangoon; another preaches Buddhism in the most remote regions of the land; while the third, a nationalist, strives for the defense of a national identity which he sees as under threat.

China's New Silk Roads project is one of President Xi Jinping's grandest designs - perhaps even the grandest - a vast plan to create land and sea trade routes across the whole of Eurasia, stretching right into Europe.

Central to this strategic development project is the Eurasian Land Bridge, a 10,000-kilometre road and rail network that will run across western China to Central Asia via Kazakhstan, then along the edge of the Urals to Moscow and ultimately to Europe. This New Silk Road is designed to allow China to expand westwards, to strengthen its hold on the Muslim province of Xinjiang, where the Uyghurs live and establish its dominance in Central Asia, historically within Russia's sphere of influence. Too bad if that means ruffling the feathers of its traditional ally.

Albert Londres Prize 2016 in the Audiovisual Press category, this film is an unprecedented and chilling investigation into the invisible weapon of Bashar al-Assad's regime: the kidnapping, torture and murder of tens of thousands of Syrians.

Images of the first peaceful protests of March 2011 have become a vague, almost fanciful memory. The Syria of 2015 has sunk into civil war and absolute chaos. Chaos caused by the over-mediatised brutality of the self proclaimed Islamic State. Chaos, also and above all, caused by the invisible and little known weapon of Bashar al-Assad's regime: the kidnapping, torture and murder, since 2011, of tens of thousands of Syrians - up to 200,000 of them, depending on the source.

Countless disappearances reveal the relentless death machine secretly set up by Damascus: teenagers are rounded up in their schools, protesters are sent in trucks to unknown destinations, and passers-by are arbitrarily arrested. For the first time, families in exile, survivors, but also accomplices of the Alawite regime, lay bare the strategy the Syrian dictatorship uses in order to remain in power at all costs. According to Munir al-Hariri, who served the Assads until November 2012, "the objective is not murder, but to prove the State's strength and tyranny. The objective is to kill some to teach a lesson to others".

10 years ago, people started hearing what, for them, was a relatively new word in the Western European political arena and the media - the Roma. They hastily associated the word with begging, trafficking and a mafia network - and even referred simply to the "Roma problem"!

This straight-talking investigation travels to all four corners of Europe, from East to West, in search of the answers, in a bid to understand the phenomenon, to sift truth from myth, and to discover the reality behind the clichés. It examines issues such as nomadism, economic transition, positive discrimination, the racialization of social problems, delinquency, European Union expansion and transitional measures.

This film also explores the role the European Union plays in the process of stigmatisation of the Roma. Today in both East and West, extreme-right wing parties - but not solely these parties - are using the Roma as a tool to rise to power. What weight does the EU carry in relation to the Nation states? And more importantly, what are its values?

Between 1895 and 1945 Japan was constantly at war in South-East Asia. After its defeat in 1945, Japan pushed the population to turn inward to a strong and revisionist nationalist power. But is this ideology from the past a threat to its present democracy?

The documentary is built around present footage in four places that resonate with Japan's past, i.e. Tokyo, a place where electoral issues coalesce; Manchuria, the region conquered by Japanese imperialism; Okinawa and American post-war occupation; and Nagasaki, the symbol of modern-day Japan. These places make it possible to shed light on Japan's confrontations with the West, the geopolitical tensions in South-East Asia and Japan's democratic politics.

Russian hints that the country could hand over America's most wanted whistle blower as a favor to Donald Trump place Edward Snowden in even greater danger than before. A secret meeting between global freedom and civil rights campaigners Snowden, Birgitta Jonsdottir and Larry Lessig turns into a freewheeling discussion about the future of democracy.

The three activists agreed to be filmed during an extraordinary conversation about their ongoing struggles, the last bastions of democracy and the opportunities and choices still left to us. The questions they ask are fundamental. Can democracy be saved? What unites us? How can you tell when democracy has failed? Who gets to write history?

What environmental and human realities does the question of returning to Fukushima encompass? More than 5 years after the triple disaster, the new lives the former exclusion zone residents are making for themselves warrant examination.

The nuclear accident and ensuing evacuation turned their lives upside down. Where and how to start life anew after events like these? In addition to the threat from radioactivity and the difficulties of starting again from scratch, the inhabitants must now face the fierce desire of the Japanese authorities to re-conquer the land in the region of Fukushima. The Japanese government is decontaminating the forbidden zone left, right and centre, re-opening towns and encouraging the 80,000 residents who evacuated the zone to return. It wants to erase everything and start all over again, despite the still elevated levels of radioactivity.

ANATOMY OF CRIME FICTION

Who? When? How? Why? This series immerses us in the chaos at the dark heart of crime fiction, taking us on journey through the labyrinthine workings of the whodunnit, with many a shudder along the way.

Nowadays, one published novel in four is a "roman noir", a "thriller" or a "detective story". How did crime fiction come to be so popular that it is now a universal language everyone can understand?

Through interviews with present-day creators of crime fiction, Part 1 of Anatomy of Crime Fiction analyses the fateful trio of the victim, the murderer and the detective, piecing together a profile of the 3 emblematic figures who provide the starting-point for all good whodunnits, while Parts 2 and 3 explore locations and plots.

We all know what a food market is. We're attracted by the electrifying colours, pulsing sounds and gorging products. But what do we know about how a food market actually works? How do enormous quantities of food reach there every day and where does it come from? Who decides the prices and puts together thousands of different vendors in huge but concentrated areas? In the Belly of the City graphs the changes that have taken place at the heart of the cities food supply systems from an entirely new perspective.

Fashion loves a scandal. In fact, it only progresses thanks to scandals - from the juicy to the thorny, to the spicy to the laughable.

There are various types of scandal in fashion, and this series endeavours to examine all of them, in a humorous light, seeking the fly in the ointment, the revealing or raunchy anecdote. Loïc Prigent wants to reveal fashion's state of mind, and one of its principles: how to get ahead if you don't respect a thing. Fashion thinks outside the box - and therefore frequently clashes, often for better, sometimes for worse - and sometimes for the grotesque.

Shortly after the Second World War, Parisian haute couture experienced an extraordinary revival epitomised by Dior's New Look, Givenchy's elegance, Chanel's style and Balenciaga's sophistication. It was a golden age, but it was also a swan song - the last blaze of glory of a world that had become an anachronism.

Through the intertwined careers of the great couturiers of the period and their eccentric, immensely rich customers, Paris Couture conjures up a world that has vanished forever - the world of the great couture houses, with its fancy dress balls and salons.

During those 25 years, the couturiers were able to give their imaginations a free rein, indulging in every possible extravagance, but the democratization of fashion, the advent of the leisure society and increasingly affordable air travel were to hasten the decline of haute couture.

Haute Couture is the Acropolis of fashion. It is majestic, impressive and somewhat in ruins - but it remains a symbol. Its biggest shortcoming is that not many people really know what Haute Couture is anymore, often confusing it with luxury Ready-to-Wear. So what exactly is Haute Couture?

"It is doxa, a guarantee of quality, a Parisian tradition, a fashion reserved for an elite, a price range, clients, couturiers (and no longer creators), and a media platform. In this documentary, I want to explain what Haute Couture is through the detailed filming of a week of Haute Couture fashion shows in Paris" explains Loïc Prigent.

Despite the fact that there have been many changes over time in the way anorexia is viewed on a societal, cultural and medical level, the condition remains an enigma.

This film is presented in the form of an international investigation into the way the condition is evolving and the way in which anorexia and its treatment take on the interpretations of their era. What is anorexia nervosa? Is it a form of hysteria or psychosis, an addiction or a borderline state? A perversion? A hormonal disorder? A neurological disorder? An eating disorder? A body-image disorder?

For centuries, descriptions and interpretations of the condition - some conflicting, some complementary - have followed on from one another. This illness of mind and body resists any exclusively biological or exclusively psychoanalytical approach. The body, which becomes a battleground, bears the brunt of this relationship and dependency disorder.

The film focuses on the "enigma" of anorexia (the pursuit of maximum thinness) rather than on the wider field of eating disorders, which would include too many diverse notions.

Three people kill themselves every day in France because they've become trapped in a vicious spiral of debt.

All over Europe, household over-indebtedness is on the rise; it's a ticking time bomb. Though it doesn't always lead to suicide, it often causes a 'little death' of economic and social exclusion and serious psychological distress, a nightmare from which it is extremely hard to escape.

An investigative documentary that examines the alarming and inexorable rise of household over-indebtedness throughout Europe, and the battle against this economic, social and human scourge.

Following the events of 7th January 2015 in Paris, we wanted to understand who inspired cartoonists Cabu, Wolinski, Charb and all the others, in developing their art - the art of caricature.

Hogarth, Gillray, Daumier, Philipon, Valloton and even Jean Moulin all dipped their pens in the black ink of caricature. They are indebted to the aesthetic research of the geniuses of art such as the Italians Leonardo da Vinci and Bernini, the Germans Lucas Cranach, Hans Holbein and Durer, the Dutchman Jerome Bosch and many more. Baudelaire himself said: "Caricature is an excellent indication of a society's freedom". An art form that is often gagged but is never hushed!

This collection takes an original look at contemporary gardens focusing on examples of the most recent landscaping. We learn from those who find innovative and creative solutions that provide poetic breathing spaces in an increasingly urbanised world.

Landscape architect Jean-Philippe Teyssier takes us on a discovery of the most beautiful gardens in France and elsewhere in Europe. The gardeners, landscapers, horticulturalists, architects, historians and estate managers he meets reveal the art of gardening. They show us how gardens have been designed, planted and maintained over the centuries. The exceptional gardens Jean-Philippe Teyssier visits are a myriad of passions, journeys, colours and shapes.

Sarah Schwartz has been travelling the world, from big top to big top, for over twenty years. She has made the circus her world. A high wire at her feet leads her from one country to the next.

In this collection, she invites us behind the scenes of the circus dream, revealing its highly singular world. Taking part in a convoy with Sarah Schwarz means discovering a country in a different way: through the steamed up window of a caravan, a different shade of world goes past, a nomadic world, a world of freedom.

With Sarah, we set out to discover a universe that will help us understand the countries visited, bringing us wisdom and knowledge, but also magic and poetry. From the family circus to contemporary circus, from the travelling circus to the permanent circus, we discover countries that are different from each other, yet are all planets in the same galaxy. Roll up, roll up, for a magical, brightly coloured world tour!

Are biopesticides - micro-organisms that fight pests naturally - the promise of a chemical-free agriculture? Farmers all over the world are converting to biopesticides, stimulated by scientific research that is opening up new perspectives. But is the technique risk-free for the environment?

Invertebrates, insects, mites, fungi, bacteria, viruses ... these living mini-organisms that scientists are studying in great detail worldwide, will here make light work of pests. Today they are our best hope of a pesticide-free agriculture that is so harmful to man and the environment.

So are biopesticides revolutionary? In Europe, Brazil and India, millions of farmers have already adopted bioprotectors. Today, the agro-chemical industry is investing heavily in the sector, but promising as it is, the technique is still far from being infallible, and is not entirely devoid of risk to the ecosystem.

Through the correspondence between the actress Marion Cotillard, a climate change activist, and Marinel, a young Filipino, we explore the coasts left devastated by one of the greatest natural disasters ever recorded on the island, as well as solutions for preserving the future of the region.

In 2013 the Super Typhoon Haiyan hit the coasts of the Philippines, destroying towns and villages. Over 6000 people were killed and millions were left homeless. The film follows 16-year-old Marinel, one of many Filipinos taking action to save the archipelago from climate change-related catastrophes, through her encounters with individuals who have refused to abandon hope and are working to safeguard the Philippines. The journey ends on a note of triumph at the COP21 Climate Conference in Paris, where Marinel is propelled into the role of spokesperson and rubs shoulders with leading figures in the fight against climate change.

Human consciousness, which is unique in the living world, has remained a mystery of divine origin for thousands of years. But today, recent and spectacular scientific progress (from medical imagery to quantum physics) is starting to shed light on it.

I think therefore I am. But who thinks inside of us? Who are we? This film takes us on a journey beyond our brains. Like conscience, human intelligence has propelled Man to the peak of evolution, giving him the opportunity to dominate the world. And yet today, intelligence would see to have broken down. Average IQ is dropping. Through this investigation into the nature of intelligence and multiple intelligences, we discover the reasons for this breakdown, and how we can give our intelligence another boost, thanks to scientific progress, including brain cell transplants.

How would you like your Cow? Plump? Hornless? Producing lactose-reduced or insulin-enriched milk?

A journey to the heart of a revolution in progress - the animal gene. An XXL-sized Belgian Cow, swollen with a specific gene in order to maximize its weight and muscle structure. American scientists are working on the Cow of the Future, able to generate "eco farts" in order to reduce global warming. Since when have we been manufacturing cows the same way we manufacture sneakers? Can we give them any colour, shape or characteristic we want? And to which end? Is it economic, environmental or medical?

The Gates of Hell is Auguste Rodin's artistic triumph. For which he created such masterpieces as The Kiss and The Thinker. The one that occupied him for 20 years of his life... and that he never saw completed. The one that was his heaven and hell... Divino#Inferno.

Through the thrilling story of this door's creation, visual artist, photographer and filmmaker Bruno Aveillan draws a fascinating portrait of the sculptor's unrivaled esthetic quality - a sculptor who was probably the first modernist and certainly the one who gave sculpture its credibility.

The 19th century is like no other. An aesthetic, scientific and political bubbling is changing the face of the world. Paris is a genuine cultural hub. An intellectual and artistic elite was formed including Auguste Rodin. Bold and gifted, he and others altered this era forever.

Rodin's destiny is both singular and closely context related. Fed by a public and private correspondence, this film will draw the strands of his life and reminds the background when required. However, it will be anything but a commemoration : Rodin is still alive because eternal. In Paris, his sculptures are an integral part of the urban decor : Theenseur and Balzac at Varenne subway station, the D'Alembert at the town Hall... Through constant back and forth between past and present, this film is about Rodin's spirit, forever among us.

As famous in his time as Picasso, the painter Bernard Buffet experienced glory but it was followed by a fall from grace.

Today, he has finally achieved recognition. Despite his inimitable style, he was marginalised for half a century on account of his popular success, his millionaire's lifestyle and his contempt for the art world. A look back over the life of a controversial artist, today considered a precursor of Pop Art.

Faced with racist caricatures, African-American painters decided to present a different image of their community than the one imposed by the degrading stereotypes of a brutally racist society.

Ignored and marginalised, they had to wait a century before they finally won recognition. This film tells the story of how African-American artists took back their image, from the abolition of slavery to the present day.

Since 2012, China has been the world number one in art sales. Who are these artists? What drives them and how do they combat censorship?

Contemporary Chinese art was finally able to take off after Mao's death. Artists have revisited Western art and some have hijacked Communist propaganda, adding to it a criticism of the Western consumerism that is sweeping the country. Art is well placed to observe the excesses of Chinese society, and has become the flag bearer for aspirations to freedom. These contemporary works symbolise people's wounds and hardships, and State violence.

Although two artists - Basquiat and Koons - constitute 50% of the American market, China has 47 artists in the top 100, and nearly half them are newcomers.

Through personal encounters with the most original and avant-garde artists, in their workshops or during performances, this film sets out to understand their work and what motivates them, as well as looking at how they fight censorship.

This documentary film explores the secret inspiration and the little known influences of a painter whose canvasses are much less naïve than they appear to be.

Henri Rousseau started to paint in Paris around 1880, at the age of 40. This self-taught artist was friendly with the poet Apollinaire, Robert Delaunay and Pablo Picasso, who recognized his genius, and yet his work was to remain underrated during his lifetime. However, with its dislocated compositions and profoundly dreamlike subject matter, it was to have a decisive influence on modern art, from surrealism to abstract art.

The story of an incredible collection of modern art, amassed in the early 20th century, in Moscow, by a textiles trader.

Featuring 37 works by Matisse and 49 by Picasso, the Shchukin collection was later to be dispersed, and Shchukin's name erased from history.

After a century of oblivion, the documentary recounts the story of the collector's life and, for the first time, reveals the tragic destiny of his collection and its rediscovery.

This collection explores history of art in a totally new way. Each film is a journey, an investigation and an adventure. The painting comes to life, as animation overrides the limits of the frame, taking us to the heart of the canvass and plunging us into its era and history.

The great works of the past portray abundant testimonies, and are imbued with secrets and are teeming with mysteries. Beneath the surface of the painting, details awaken, to recount the spirit of the times and the vagaries of History, such as wars, revolutions, economic transformation, scientific discovery, beliefs and schools of thought.

Our guides are art historians, restorers, current and former residents, and directors and curators. The documentary takes a unique plunge into the intimate history of the place that is admired by many and criticized by some, but considered universally to be a "Dolce Villa".

CITIZEN LOEWY - HOW A FRENCHMAN DESIGNED THE AMERICAN DREAM

Who was Raymond Loewy? A designer with the golden touch - such a genius that he could cross the US by air, rail, or road, stylishly seated in a plane, train, or automobile he'd designed himself!

French designer Raymond Loewy was a star when the American Way of Life was at its flamboyant capitalist peak. He styled his own destiny as a Hollywood thriller. After all, he was a tycoon, a New York celebrity. Yet by the end of his life, he'd been forgotten. He took the mystery of his iconic Coca-Cola bottle to the grave with him. The bigger they are, the harder they fall: One day, megalomania got the better of Loewy, and he came to a tragic end. Suspense, drama, twists of fate: Loewy invented the medium as the message.

"Who killed Roger Ackroyd" is a deconstruction of one of the most famous Agatha Christie's novel as well as an original portrait of a cult writer, whose life still retains a part of mystery today.

The Murder of Roger Ackroyd is one Agatha Christie's most famous novels. Its fame rests on a narrative device, profoundly original in its day (1926): murderer and narrator are one and the same. The author was thoroughly pilloried by critics at the time for this. They considered her invention an unfair trick on readers, that broke the rules of detective fiction.

Eighty years later, Pierre Bayard, a professor of literature and psychoanalyst, offers a fascinating deconstruction of the novel. Quite apart from the technical aspects of his analysis, Bayard reaches an absolutely convincing, yet astounding conclusion: Agatha Christie is guilty of a miscarriage of justice. The murderer cannot be Dr Sheppard, as Hercule Poirot so blithely asserts.

This film recounts the unstoppable rise of the Funny Girl, who became the first female megastar, from her birth in 1942 to the peak of her career in 1983. It focuses on the outstanding phenomenon of the birth of a star and the construction of an icon, examining how Streisand shaped and influenced her entire artistic lineage, and embodied the cause of women and homosexuals.

Today's powerful pop divas - Madonna, Rihanna, Mariah Carey, Lady Gaga, Beyoncé and so on - trace their descent back to the mother of all Queen Bees: Barbra Streisand. Streisand's achievements rank her among the Hollywood greats. Her acting, singing and dancing talents have won her numerous awards including two Oscars, nine Golden Globes, eight Grammys and five Emmys. The kooky, odd-looking mezzo-soprano was to redefine people's notions of beauty and show that a female star could be a strong, liberated, unconventional woman, paving the way for the "girl power" generation of female vocalists.

This documentary charts Streisand's extraordinary rise from "funny girl" to first female mega-star. It tells her life-story from her birth in 1942 to 1983, when her fame was at its peak, and shows how she became an icon who shaped and influenced generations of female performers and embodied the causes of women and gays.

Since 2013, Olivier Père, Executive Director of ARTE France Cinéma, has been conducting interviews with personalities from the world of film.

The interviews with directors (and sometimes actors or producers) are carried out in a simple manner, facing the camera. They mostly take place during the Cannes Film Festival, when films are presented in the various categories, but also sometimes in Paris.

Olivier Père explains: "Our guests are interviewed in an intimate atmosphere - unlike for promotional interviews - in which we show our interest or admiration (and often both, simultaneously) regarding specific aspects of the writing, directing or producing of the film, and naturally, regarding the author's intentions and motivations. Interviewees include budding filmmakers, who have risen to prominence following an outstanding first film, as well as experienced filmmakers and leading names in French, European and international cinema".

The global success of the 1956 film AND GOD CREATED WOMAN catapulted its director, Roger Vadim, into stardom. For a generation that had been through the horrors of war, his hedonistic attitude was the acme of cool.

Now that he had got his start, Vadim made a string of films in quick succession. He had the pick of great French actors such as Jeanne Moreau and Gérard Philipe. He went through a string of relationships too, famously with Brigitte Bardot, Annette Stroyberg, Catherine Deneuve and Jane Fonda. He used all of them in his films, fostering the legend of himself as a Svengali figure. But they all came to detest his casual womanizing.

Vadim might have become a great film director, but his playboy lifestyle got in the way of his career.

The filmmaker offers a unique perspective on his work and provides us with the keys to understanding it, shortly before his death, on October 9th, 2016.

"Polish is not a nationality, it is a destiny".

This emblematic quotation neatly encapsulates Andrzej Wajda's cinematographic work. A few months ago, filmmaker Andrzej Wolski sat down his illustrious compatriot Andrzej Wajda in an editing suite of the WAJDA SCHOOL (which he created in Warsaw 15 years ago) and showed him scenes from his films, which they chose together, to record a cinema lesson by the world famous master. Approaching the age of 90, Wajda's mischievous blue-eyed gaze was as lively as ever, and the tone and flow of what he said still retained kindness, finesse, humour and mastery over his subjects of predilection. Reacting to these scenes, Wajda was able to recount in a unique way the "inner workings" of his work as a filmmaker while at the same time, placing the scenes in their historical and political context. His cinema lesson provides an opportunity to revisit the intricacies of the post-World War 2 history of this part of Europe in a way that is both enlightening and fascinating.

HD

Having viewed the film when it had been freshly edited, Andrzej Wajda wanted it to be the documentary of reference for his 90th birthday.

How far does a prawn travel before ending up in a supermarket? How much time goes by between the time a cow arrives and the time its meat is refrigerated in the form of a steak?

Focusing on industrially produced goods, "Product"'s subjective camera accesses various manufacturing chains in different countries. Combining a fascination for the processes with a form of unveiling, the series documents the various stages of manufacture, and sets out to meet the communities and discover the technologies involved in them. "Product" aims to decode a globalised industry in which the end products mask the realities of their manufacture.

David and Deborah Pennac cultivate the image of a perfect couple, hoping to fool those around them.

In reality, David, a love coach, lives in fear of losing everything he's got, especially his wife, whom we suspect he manipulates. As for Deborah, she would do anything to alleviate her boredom and the pain of her inability to bear children, even to the extent, it would appear, of enduring her husband's violent outbursts.

But appearances look set to come tumbling down when David's brother Nicolas turns up, eight years after they have fallen out. Nicolas, who is charming but borderline, is a former junkie - good reasons to refuse to put him up, despite the fact he is in distress. His wife Marie has left him and no longer gives any sign of life. She has left him their four-year-old daughter, Emma. Moved by the little girl who rekindles her longing for a child, Deborah convinces her husband to put Nicolas up for a while, and to use the time to make peace with him.

Sacha Mendel, a commanding officer with the judicial police, thinks the disappearance of Marie Pennac should be a straightforward case to deal with. But he soon becomes concerned for Deborah, who is caught between two brothers with a troubled past. When Deborah disappears in turn, something tells him he doesn't have a moment to lose.

Isabelle Adjani is Carole Matthieu - a workplace physician employed in a call center who has become emotionally involved in the suffering of her humiliated coworkers, exposed to both physical and emotional violence. Powerless to stop the endless flow of employees that come to see her on a daily basis, she decides to take action one evening.

When one employee, whom she has previously saved from a suicide attempt, comes to see her, she decides to end it all... for him. In a frantic race against time, police search for a culprit, unions dither on the stance they should take, and the management tries to keep up a front, to hold on to their market share.

Despite these obstacles, and the doubt and guilt consuming her, the slayer-cum-saviour workplace angel is determined to recount "the other story", using notes, letters and medical records. The story of men and women, crushed under the mechanics of performance and profit.

After ten years in prison, Céline is free. Between rebirth and relapse, "The Object of Curiosity" sketches her return to daily life and the discovery of a new romance.

Laurent Perrea, director:

It is not a tale of escape but of liberation. I want to give Céline a second chance, to allow her to inhabit the film for the time and space of its duration, and to make her a soldier on the frontline - valiant, courageous, touching and resolute in her desire to live, finally. It's rare for a director to have the chance to actually meet the character he had previously imagined. With Laura Smet, I have been given that chance. Her story connects with and adds weight to Céline's.

This drama is Valeria Bruni Tedeschi's adaptation of Anton Chekhov's favourite play.

In a small garrison town, lost in the middle of the Russian countryside, three young women, who arrived there with their late father, a former brigade commander, dream of returning to Moscow where they spent their childhood. Entertained by military visits, the sisters find a semblance of a life. Macha, who married her dull husband at too early an age, falls in love with a commander. Olga finds renewed enthusiasm for life and Irina becomes engaged to a lieutenant.

But it is soon time for the troops to leave, the youngest sister's fiancé dies in a duel, and solitude once again takes over the lives of these three women, who become disillusioned recluses. The chronicle of several years of a life on the fringes of history and modernity, this four-act drama is an ironic portrayal of a youth without perspective or illusion, as though frozen in a deadly era. The strange mirror of a drifting country, Three Sisters captures the image of a society on the brink of a destiny that cannot be, and that is aware of its imminent end.
